FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

Postmaster Field, of Philadelphia, proposes to observe civil service principles in his administration of the office.

The Cameron county jail is full to overflowing, and Judge Mayer has been petitioned for permission to remove the surplus to the Elk County prison until next court. With the building boom in Emporium has come an increase in crime. One always follows the other.

From the desperate and concerted efforts being made by the Democratic organs throughout the country to defeat Mahone, it is evident that there is alarm in the camp over the strength the little champion has been developing. If the General does not make his election he will come so close to it as to make his opponents feel exceedingly uncomfortable.

A lady, who had recently lost her husband, and a friend were eating dinner together at the residence of the latter. 'I sympathize with you from the bottom of my heart in your great sorrow,' said the friend. 'It must be terrible to lose such a man.' 'Ah, me, yes,' sighed the widow. It is only the hope of soon meeting him in a better land that gives me courage and desire to live.'

It was a fine sense of justice that impelled a Nebraska jury a week or so ago to acquit a man who stole an umbrella on a rainy day on the ground that he acted in self-defense. Justice in that neighborhood is evidently regulated to some extent by the state of the weather. Probably a man who stole an umbrella on a clear day would be convicted of assault and battery or manslaughter.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has shown its customary wisdom in re-electing Grand Chief Arthur. Mr. Arthur is not infallible, but he is one of the ablest and most conservative men ever chosen to lead a labor organization in this country, and in reviewing his long career as the head of the Brotherhood the wonder is, not that he has made mistakes, but that he has made so few.

We naturally believe that the reflection of burglars are not pleasant to them, and because we are not surprised to hear of the Chicago burglar who fired at his reflection in a mirror while he was exploring the residence of a wealthy gentleman to see if the members of the family were all resting comfortably. He found himself confronted by an ugly looking customer and he promptly took steps to enable him to see through the apparition. Probably the presence of the quicksilver precipitated his action.

The Message and Reports.

That any one besides the President himself is able now to say what ground he will take in his message on the question of revising the tariff, is wholly improbable. At the same time it would be a reasonable belief that the reports that represent that the President will recommend lower duties in some important respects, in order to meet certain new conditions, and in view of the increasing ability of manufacturers to supply the home market in certain respects, even if lower duties are put upon imports, are well based. Facing certain new conditions and called upon to respond to propositions looking to the extension of trade; the modification of ideas, and to a certain extent the recasting of policy relating to reform, is supported by considerations of self-interest not heretofore existing. The President is understood to be impressed with the outlook; and while adhering strictly to the policy of Protection, he will, it is believed, recommend modifications responsive to new ideas applicable to new fields of commerce and trade. Not for years has a greater interest attached to the assembling of Congress than now. Not only the President's message but especially Mr. Blaine's and Secretary Windom's reports will be awaited with peculiar interest.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

I have assumed the entire management and control of the Daily News and Republican, also the job department in conncetion therewith. As in the past it shall be our earnest endeavor to give the people of Bellefonte and Centre county a paper of the people and for the people. The political policy shall continue to be strongly aggressive and progressive republican. The paper will never cater to the whims or be the too of any one man or faction, but will support the right where the right prevails and will fight the wrong with as great vigor and tenacity.

It shall always be our object to combine promptness with good work and we hope by so doing to merit a continuance of the good feeling and patronage that has in past years been bestowed on this office.

Chas. L. Gates.

A Sensible Editorial.

Whatever may be justly said in criticism of the political editorials of the New York World one thing is certain, its articles touching great social interests, and the general welfare of the American people, are always characterized by sound sense and rational advice,

In speaking of the growing habit of our rich, though foolish American mothers, of taking their silly daughters over to Europe in search of titled, though imbecile husbands, and in special reference the Murat-Caldwell case the World says: "Prince Murat is a beggar. He never earned an honest dollar in his life, and his disreputable readiness to sell himself in marriage was an act of mendicancy as direct as is that of any whining tramp who solicits aim at area doors.

But that is not all. Prince Murat is something much worse than a beggar. He is a fraudulent pretender calling himself a "Prince" in a Republic, without even the poor excuse of descent from a discredited royal ancestry. He is what the vulgar call a "back number" from an overthrown usurpation. His claim to consideration consists solely of the fact that his father was one of the successful butchers of men whom Napoleon employed to help him overthrow the liberties of the French people.

And yet if Miss Caldwell could have agreed with this person on the price she should pay for the use of his name as that of her husband the people in this country who call themselves "society" would have applauded her success and servilely courted the acquaintance and favor of the Princess by purchase.

A whiff of free American air is needed to disinfect our fashionable drawing-rooms."

The fashionable drawing rooms in our great cities are a hurt and disgrace to Christian civilization, and their tendency is to the destruction of purest and noblest womanhood.

The resources of this country are so varied and abundant, and so easily brought within the reach of enterprise, that shrewd business men like the Goulds, the Vanderbilts, and others, find opportunities to become suddenly rich. Then the wives and daughters insist upon opening the splendor and extravagances, and vices, of the European aristocratic nobility. A man who for years was honored and respected in this city, and who held many offices of trust, is now in Sing Sing, having been ruined by the fashionable folks of his wife.

The most serious menace to the future happiness and welfare of this nation is to be found in the method of life in what is termed fashionable society.

Nine tenths of our commercial failures can be traced, for the cause, directly to the extravagant outlays demanded by these sham and hollow social conditions.

We are glad that an independent press like the World has dared to rebuke the custom of offering American girls and money simply to secure a titled name weighted down by a tattered and shattered fragment of some effete ancestral nobility.

Hiram Torrey.

The admission of the new State deprives New York of the claim that her electoral vote settles every Presidential contest. The Republican nominee for President in 1892 can do without New York, but it is proposed to carry the State for him just as in 1880 and 1888. The reign of fraud in the city has been broken up.

A PHENOMENAL CONDITION.

In commenting on the great business boom the Pittsburgh Times says: The products of the protected industries of the country have outrun the capacity of the railroads to transport them. Producers and consumers together share the experience. It is an incident occurring for the first time in the history of the country. In the civil war certain roads on special occasions were taxed beyond their capacity. But now the roads of the country are virtually submerged by a deluge of the products of the country's industries. Apparently it is not merely a sudden raise of the tide—an unforeseen and unaccountable swelling of the volume of business soon to subside. For all that can be seen it is a permanent development of business; not of a single branch, but of all branches. There may be an ebb to the tide but it will not go as low as when the flow set in. That the railroads did not foresee this condition and prepare for it, is what occurs to the mind, but there is no ground for complaint. All the great railroads of the country are similarly affected—the flood is universal. But some roads are affected more than others; and yet, so far as can be seen, none have been specially derelict. There are parts of the country where the development of business has been greater than others: where the phenomenon of the protected industries outrunning the equipments of railroads—undeniably great in their equipments and where they were supposed to be equal to anything that was likely to occur—have proved unequal to demands; but in no part of the country is this experienced in so marked a degree as Western Pennsylvania. We have watched the papers and we have seen the complaint of want of transportation, but nowhere is it so loud, prolonged or earnest as in the district known as Western Pennsylvania. It is here that the pressure is greatest. But it is a pressure that no reasonable person will regret. That the great Pennsylvania road should be swamped or anywhere near it, is perhaps the greatest fact of all. The demand for a thousand cars is common. The want could not be foreseen. It could not be foreseen that for motive power the call would be so far in excess of the supply. Who ever supposed that the deluge was at hand. When one branch of trade in a single district makes a demand for 1,500 cars, not for a special occasion and for once only, but every day for an indefinite perio, and a doz en other branches make similar demands, is it at all strange that there should be a car famine; that of locomotives there should not be enough—that producers should be impatient and consumers should grow dissatisfied? And then there is the overflow at terminal points—the dawning all at once that there is not room enough, not enough of anything! The test is a serious one. No road is there that does not feel now as never before the mistake committed in the past, in construction, in equipment, in grades, in a thousand respects not before suspected. The shoe pinches in every spot It is an experience as valuable as it is interesting. It is the deluge!

FREE IRON AND COAL.

Mr. Ames, agent of extensive iron-mills in Massachusetts, in speaking of the low profits of the iron trade in New England, says "the trouble is not necessarily in the tariff, for even wish free iron the high rate of wages we pay would influence the cost of production in the same proportion as at present." He goes on to say that New England manufacturers cannot expect to make the profits realized in the West and South, because of the disadvantages of situation, the cost of coal being one of the great reasons. Even free coal would not solve the difficulty, because in any event they would have to use Pennsylvania coal.

There is a broader view of this subject, and that is that with free raw materials would come a demand for lower duties on manufactured iron, and down would go wages in a fruitless effort to compete with foreign-made products. On this point Mr. Ames says: "The trouble is, if the duty is taken off entirely from raw material used in the iron industry, it will not be long before there will be a cry for a lower tariff on the finished product, and if that comes the life of the iron industry in New England will be of very short duration. England, Germany and Belgium would soon flood the country with their iron productions."

The true policy, not only for New England, but for the whole country, is to stand by the tariff. "Free raw materials" is a delusive cry. What is raw materials in some hands is the finished product of others, and to begin with free coal, iron ore, wool, lumber and the like, would necessitate an entire recasting and reduction of the customs duties, and the serious crippling of the mining, lumbering and wool-growing industries. Just now, when the country is prosperous and prices are on the upgrade, it would seem inopportune, at least, to be clamoring for a line of policy that would fritter away the protective system.

ANOTHER TRUST FAILURE

It looks as though the American Cotton Oil Trust has not met the expectations of its promoters, since it is proposed to the certificate-holders to transfer all rights under the trust to a company incorporated under a special statute of New Jersey. It may be that the new scheme when fully revealed, will be less objectionable than the old, but this is hardly probable. The new company will have a capital of $21,000,000 and issue a collateral trust bond of $10,000,000, to draw 5 per cent interest. The present capital is 42,000,000, so that the new organization will reduce the aggregate by 10,000,000. The main object seems to be to remove objections to the listing of the Cotton Oil securities on the New York Stock Exchange and escape the popular odium attaching to the trust.

This movement, following so closely upon the obortive efforts to form a Salt Trust, and the downward course of the Sugar Trust certificates, may be taken as pretty strong indication that the mania for trusts is on the decline. The Sugar Trust, which promised such exorbitant returns, may be said to be in a state of collapse. A few months ago the certificates commanded 126, and now they are ranging in the upper 60s. The profits have been enormous during the past two years, but the recent decline in refined sugar, taken in connection with the fact that the capacity of the refineries is now double the aggregate of consumption, leaves little chance for dividends in the future. Another cause of depression is the promisingly large yield of cane and beet sugar at home and abroad. There has already been a drop of 2 to 3 cents a pound in refined, and on the total yearly consumption each cent less per pound represents a loss to the refiners of $25,000,000. Consumers will rejoice that their time has come, and very few will regret to see the Sugar Trust follow in the wake of the Copper syndicate.

Although it did not appear to be known to postoffice authorities, yet the postal arrangement between the United States and Canada has all along permitted and does still permit, packages containing malt liquids, fatty substances, confections and pastes in the mails exchanged between Canada and the United States, provided they are put up in the manner prescribed for such articles to entitle them to transmission in the domestic mails of the country in which such articles are mailed.

The payment at this late day of $293 to a Wisconsin soldier as his share of the reward offered by the Government for the capture of Jefferson Davis is a bit of offensive partisanship which our friends the enemy will never condone, never! We don't exactly approve of it, either, and for this reason, that the original sum of $293 ought to have been accompanied by interest from the very hour the great traitor was captured.

—The young Republicans of this place are entitled to a great deal of credit for their activity in getting Republican votes in the ballot box on Tuesday last. If it had not been for these patriotic young citizens we would have been left much worse than we were. All honor to them.

Pennsylvania pig sold in Liverpool is one more proof that in the case of a tariff "the amount of the duty is always added to the cost of the product."

At Carnegie's Homestead Mill, a few days since, David Kennedy, a roller, turned out an armor plate of extraordinary size. It weighs 15,200 pounds, and its dimensions are 80 by 150 inches and 3 inches thick.

MONEY, PRICE AND TRADE:

The business situation continues to offer an insoluble problem to its observers and still more to those who attempt to predict its future. This is not strange. We doubt if any recent Autumn has shown more contradictions.

"Money" has risen from 3 per cent to 12 in the past two months and the quotations of stocks have remained unchanged under an influence which has always reduced them in the past. Instead, nothing but the "trusts" and roads like the Atchison or Reading, in or near the throes of organization, have fallen, and "the declines" as the Financial Chronicle says, "have been marvelously small."

Railroad earnings are far in advance of 1888 and the practical consolidation of a trans-continental system in the traffic arrangement of the Union Pacific, Northwestern and Chicago and Alton, to say nothing of the vast Northern Pacific and Atchison schemes, are of a sort to begin a bull movement. Prices do not budge and stand to-day so near where they were a year ago that the difference is fractional.

The grain crop here is larger than a year ago or the year before, and the grain needs in Europe greater, yet our exports of wheat are 18 per cent less for the first third of the crop year for '89-90 than for '88-9, and 31 per cent less than for '87-8.

Iron has risen in England 50 per cent and the advance has not reached a boom, but for the first time in the history of the English iron industry the boom is not due to any demand from this country, and for the first time in the history of our iron industry American pig has been sold in Liverpool.

The result of these singular contradictions is that both 'bull' and 'bear' predictions have been at fault, and those who have predicted a fall during the past two months, usually the most active period of the year in the stock market, have been as far wrong as those who predicted a rise.

Under the effect of what are plainly new conditions in our trade, it is clear that it would be idle to attempt to make predictions based on past experience. October saw an increase of over $10,000,000 in the amount of currency in circulation, but prices have not risen and the New York bank reserve has not increased, although the position of the banks has improved because they have reduced deposits and loans. Exchange is near the importing point, but the demand for gold in the reviving trade of the world is now so great that it is not believed that imports are likely. In our own vast interior trade, quite as large as in the continent of Europe, three things are clear—the demand for merchandise is slackening, profits are large enough to make collections easy, and the call for capital, both as "money" and in investments, is very great.

With much to change the price of staples, they remain stationary. Wheat with a small rise midway closed Saturday as it began a week earlier. So did oats; but corn rose just short of a cent a bushel. Pork products made no change. They are now from 20 to 30 per cent below prices a year ago. Beef products are from 10 to 20 per cent higher. Yet a reduction in the latter is almost certain, with a large corn crop. Sugar continued to fall in this country, but while sugar abroad is 8 per cent below last year's level, here it is 2 per cent above. Iron and steel have made no farther advance and tin is the only metal which rose last week. It is true of both cotton and wool manufacture in this country that production has overtaken consumption. This is not true abroad.

Oil certificates, which reached their highest Monday, 1.08¾, closed in New York at 1.05¾ Saturday. Stocks are now only 12,000,000 barrels, half a year ago and only three times what they were in 1878, when the new Bradford field opened. From 1878 to 1883 the daily production was 70,000 barrels and the daily consumption 50,000 and stocks rose to 35,000,000, thrice the present amount. During the past three years the production has been about 60,000 barrels and the consumption 80,000. This difference will exhaust current stock in less than two years. In this situation the advance which has raised the price of certificates 60 per cent above the level of 1887 can not be considered extravagant.

A farmer named Wm. Rhoades living near Tyrone, has a hen which recently laid twin eggs. Both are perfect except that upon one side they touch. As far as can be seen there is no shell dividing the curious egg in two cells.

Our Story Teller.

KATRINA AMONG THE WINDMILLS

(Christian Intelligencer).

All the windmills were going, and still Katrina was not happy. Once, she would be stirred to ecstasy just by the sight of the windmills beating the air with their huge arms when the wind blew strong and cool across the dykes. There was her grandfather's neighbor, Hans. He had a windmill on the other side of the canal, and kept it at work as often as the wind would turn it for him, and so help grind corn for Hans's customers. Sometimes, when Katrina was a child, Hans would look knowingly and wink and smile, and say, "Come, Katrina, now I know you feel sad. Let us start up the windmill. That will make you feel better."

Then the windmill would begin to creak and groan, the big fans slowly moving, turning faster, faster while the stones below would begin to rumble and grind, grind and rumble, going quicker, quicker, while Katrina would clap her hands, and in her eyes would dance the light like the sparkles in the sea beyond the dykes.

'Isn't it pretty? Don't you feel better?' Hans would say.

'Yes, yes!' Katrina would cry.

In after years, when she was grown up to womanhood, the sight of all the windmills going, and especially Hans' mill, would give the heart of Katrina joy, and the sealike sparkles would dance in her beautiful eyes. But now her eyes were sad like the cold sea when the shadows thickened upon it.

'Oh, it is a pity her grandfather Jacobus, who took her father's place when he died,' mused the friendly miller on the other side of the canal, 'it is a pity Jacobus did not let her have that young sailor Philip as a lover. Ah, it was a shame!'

A shame it was, but when her stern old grandfather frowned, shook his head and said 'No,' then Katrina obediently closed and locked the big chest she had been filling with goodly linen for household use, and Hans thought she locked in her pretty smiles also, for he missed them after that.

'Oh, it is a bad thing, a bad thing!' sputtered Hans. 'My windmill does not make her happy any more. I have a good mind not to grind any corn for Jacobus.'

Then he thought that would not do any good. It was the heart of Jacobus that needed bruising and pounding and grinding.

'Only God can do that,' muttered Hans. 'No; I'll grind Jacobus's corn for him.'

Besides, Jacobus paid for his grinding yellow gold.

Something else happened in Katrina's life. Her mother died. The two had made their home with Grandfather Jacobus. While the mother was always in the mother's room, a little haven of peace whither Katrina could flee, and all her troubles would fold their uneasy wings like the sails of the ships from tempestuous seas, Katrina was very unhappy.

'What shall I do?' she wondered. 'I miss my mother's society, and then my hands are empty. Grandfather wont let me work for he says the old servant can bake and wash. I wish he would let me help. Alas, I am very unhappy!'

So she stood and looked disconsolately out of the window. A rain was falling. A very thick mist had come in from the dreary ocean, and she could not see Hans' mill on the other side of the canal.

'My religion ought to make me happy,' she murmured.

Katrina was very much devoted to her church. There was not a Sabbath day when her sweet face could not be seen among the worshippers. It was a mystery, a serious mystery, why her peace was not deeper. She saw the shallow pools out in the street that were so disturbed, that the slightest breath of wind agitated them.

'My heart is like one of those pools,' said Katrina. Suddenly there was a rent in the curtain of mist stretched across the canal, and Hans' mill loomed up. This thought came into the mind of Katrina: 'I will ask Hans what an unhappy girl situated as I am can do.'

Rich is the poor girl that has a trustworthy friend. As Katrina was not poor in the prospect of an inheritance, the possession of the miller's friendship made her very wealthy.

'Why, dear child!' said the miller, looking pityingly upon her, 'it is no wonder if your religion doesn't bring you the comfort you desire. Now, religion is like anything else, we must use it aright. What if I have a very sharp knife? I may say it ought to bring me much satisfaction. But will it, if I left it lie on a shelf all the time? Why, no, Katrina. I must take it out where the dead vines and worthless branches are and use it. Then I say 'How much pleasure this knife gives me!' I must take out my knife and use it. So you must take out your religion and use it. Come here, Katrina, to this window!' So she went to the window. 'The fog is lifting, my Katrina, and do you see those poor houses down there? They need the help of your religion, and if you should take them some flowers or a basket of food, that would help the religion get into their homes and their hearts all the quicker. And take my word for it, Katrina, your basket may come home empty, but your heart will come back full. My child, to put it all in one word, what is needed for your sad heart is—occupation.'

Katrina smiled, and Hans was glad to notice the sunny sea sparkling again in her beautiful eyes. That very day she took a filled basket to the poor homes and brought it back empty, but how full was her heart!

'It does help me to help other folks who are in trial,' she said. 'And so many are worse off than I am! For what I have how thankful I ought to be, for health and plenty and a comfortable home!'

And then Katrina tried to lead to the Good Shepherd's fold those who were astray, and that brought her nearer to her Lord.

Grandfather Jacobus noticed the change in Katrina and he was very glad.

'Hans,' he said to the miller, 'you may grind Katrina all the corn she needs.'

'You are very kind, Jacobus, but Katrina will think it extravagant, because she goes so often and always brings home an empty basket.'

'She may go as often as she likes, and whatever she brings back will be welcome.'

Hans had a good memory. It was well for Katrina that he was possessor of it, and remembered distinctly that Grandfather Jacobus used these very words about her unselfish errands, and whatever she brings back will be welcome.'

One day Katrina came to Hans all in a flutter. The blushes deepened in her cheeks till they looked like Dutch beds of red poppies. She could hardly speak, but she did speak, and she told her good friend what was in her heart; among the sick she had found a brave sailor, one who had received his hurt because striving to put out a fire that had started in a ship belonging to Grandfather Jacobus. The fire had been extinguished, but oh, what a fever fire was raging in that brave sailor's body on account of his wounds! And it was Katrina's own faithful sailor lover, Philip! What would Grandfather Jacobus say?

'Katrina,' replied Hans, 'you must not turn aside from the poor fellow, as the priest and Levite did from the man who was robbed going to Jericho, but be the Good Samaritan, and care for him, and when he is cured bring him to me.' This eased Katrina's conscience.

One day she came bringing Philip and her empty basket. Hans stopped at once the rumbling old mill, though the wind was strong and there was much corn to be ground. He arrayed himself in his best suit, and led the little procession of Philip and Katrina and the empty basket to the house of Grandfather Jacobus. The old man was at home.

'Neighbor,' said Hans, 'you once told me that whatever Katrina brought back from her errands of mercy would be welcome, and she has brought a brave man who, in putting out a fire in one of your ships, was badly hurt and thrown into a fever. Here he is!'

Grandfather Jacobus looked up in surprise, for there was the sailor, Philip! How could he, though, but keep his word and welcome Philip?

And Katrina, how could she be but happier still, and one day marry Philip?

How He Could Write.

'Stephen,' said the colonel, speaking to an old negro who had come to cut the grass in the yard, 'I am told that you intend to give your son a good education.'

'Dat's what I does, sah. I knows whut it is ter struggle erlong without larnin', an' I is 'termined dat my son shan't travel barefoot ober de same flint rock dat I did.'

'A noble resolution, Stephen. There is something beautiful in the uncultivated that has a reverence for knowledge Is your son learning rapidly?'

'Ez fast as a horse can trot, sah. Why, last week he writ er letter ter his aunt dat libs mo' den twenty miles from yere, an' arter while he gwine write ter his udder aunt dat libs fifty miles away.'

'Why doesn't he write to her now?'

'Oh, he kain't write so far yet.

He kin write twenty miles first-rate, but I tole him not to try to write fifty miles until he got stronger wid his pen. But he gwine ter git dar, I tell you. Won't be mo'n er year fo' dat boy ken set down at one end of de gubernment and write er letter clar ter de udder end.'

—An adjourned meeting of the Y. M. C. A association will be held in the hall this evening at 7.30 sharp. Meeting of the Board immediately after.

A HERMITS, OATH.

The Woe That a Summer Boarder Worked in the Life of a Brilliant Man

San Francisco Examiner.

Way back in the early thirties there was settled a little village not far from Atlanta, which has since grown to be one of the most prominent of Georgia's smaller cities. Among the first families to make their home in the new town were those of Mr. Herndon, who owned a large rice plantation near Savannah and a Mr. Lytle, who moved from the blue grass regions of Kentucky. These families settled on neighboring lots and from that, as well as the fact that they were all strangers in a strange place, there grew up strong friendship between the two households. The heads of the families often talked together and consulted over matters of business, while the children played and romped and sent up their merry shouts as they indulged in their pleasure games.

In the Herndon family there were five children—three girls and two boys. The elder of the boys was William Fletcher Herndon, a bright manly little fellow of about 12 years. Only two children had been given to Mr. Lyle and his wife. Of these, one was a little boy, while the other was a beautiful 10-year-old girl, with chestnut-gold hair, large brown eyes and a beautifully rounded face, and on her cheeks was the ruddy glow of color that a happy life and plenty of good exercise will impart to a child. She was a sunbeam of a girl, and no one bid fairer to make a prettier woman than did Dora Lyle.

It was no wonder, then, that, being thrown together as they were, there sprang up a childish love on the part of William Herndon for Dora, and as the boy was handsome and bright, there was nothing strange in the fact that the girl returned that love.

Time went on. The one grew to be a young man of 20, good-looking, clever and accomplished, but a farmer good as anybody, but a workingman, while the other merged into a young lady of 18 the beauty of the childhood being brought out more clearly and distinctly and made even more beautiful by the maturity of womanhood. The fancied love of the children grew in reality with these two, all the village knew of the affair, and it was conceded that they would be married. But fate had decreed otherwise.

It was the summer of '52 that a richly dressed stranger made his appearance at the home of the Lyles and sought board. There was a spare room in the house, and good mother Lyle, with her eye to business, agreed to take the stranger in. There sprang up an intimacy between Dora Lyle and the stranger, but no one suspected a love affair, and time passed on until the day arrived when Will Herndon and Dora were to be married.

It was a bright September day, when the sun had gone down in all the beauty and splendor of an autumnal sunset, and the shades of night had fallen about the world, that those of the citizens of the little village who had been invited to the wedding began to assemble at the Lyle residence. Will, happy at heart, and full of the inspirations of a new life opening before him, hastened to the house of his promised bride to claim her as his own. But there was something wrong. No bride met his coming, nor could she be found anywhere. Quick and eager search was made for her, but in vain. Then, too, it was discovered that the strange boarder had disappeared also. It took but a short while for the rumor that Dora had left Will for the stylish summer border to gain circulation and credence among the guests. This was found true, for the next day a letter was received from the man, stating that he and Dora had been married in a neighboring town the night before and were on their way to a distant part of the State, where they would make their home.

Poor Bill! It seemed as if the shame and mortification and the loss of Dora would drive him mad. He acted as a crazy man, and taking a picture of the girl, which he had in his room, he would sit down for hours at a time, looking at it and crying like a child. Several days afterward he called in a number of friends, and in their presence signed this oath:

"I, William Herndon, do solemnly swear that from this day I will never associate with man or woman again, and I swear also that if ever I hear of Dora Lyle having been done any harm by any one, that I will hunt down the person who is guilty of the act and will kill him as I would a venomous reptile. So help me God!"

A strange oath that for a man to sign, but Bill signed it, and the same day he went off to the mountains and commenced work on the hut which was to be his lonely home, and began his strange life of seclusion from the world, fleeing from every one, and dead, though living, looking upon every visitor as a ghost of the past haunting him and making his presence all the more miserable.

Ancient History.

Jones, who had been listening to the outpouring of some congressional Boanerges, said to a friend as he came out into the open air:

Well! that's what I call real oratory.

"But he doesn't understand the English language."

"Never you mind; when I went to school and studied Greek I read the orations of Demosthenes; he didn't understand English either, and yet they call him a great orator.

A Million and a Half in Bills.

New York Correspondent Philadelphia Press.

Two men walked rapidly down Wall street yesterday afternoon and entered one of the prominent banking institutions. They were sturdy, heavy set men. One carried a small black satchel. Both kept their eyes roaming from side to side. I followed them into the bank. The man with the satchel sat down, dropping the bag carelessly on the floor. The other went into the receiving teller's enclosure, reached down in his breast pocket and extracted a package of bills. These were hastily counted, and the two strangers left. The teller jammed the bills into an envelope, sealed it and pitched it into a safe, afterwards closing the door in a perfunctory manner. The entire transaction occupied less than two minutes. Then the teller turned to me and said;

"How much do you think was in that package?"

"Why about $500."

"Yes, and a little more. It contains one million, four hundred and forty odd thousand."

"You don't mean it."

"Yes," he said, showing his memoranda. "You see, its nearly all in $10,000 bills. There is not great danger in carrying notes of that denomination, because, except here in New York, they are so seldom used that suspicion would at once be directed toward any who attempted to negotiate them."

One thing still puzzled me.

"What did the messenger have in his satchel?"

"Nothing but a half brick. The satchel is carried as a blind, to throw any possible thief off the track."

Philosophy of the Street.

Bright fellows generally have to go the plodders for a raise in salary.

The greatest triumph of invention is when a rogue persuades even himself that he is honest.

The beauty of being in the opposition is that a fellow can choose his own fighting ground.

The man who is not methodical never attains permanent success, although he may flourish for a season.

People who intrude their personality on the public are the first to feel offended if somebody criticises their shape.

A pig in a puddle is not as ornamental as a swan in a pellucid stream, but he is ten times as useful when life's fitful fever closes on the two.

The whitest eggs hatch out the blackest crows.

It is easy to be just where there is no injustice.

Life is a conundrum that sooner or later all must give up.

Comfort is a good thing, but too much of it will kill a man.

The world may be a stage, but we can't all be stage managers.

It is a rare man who is as bold in the presence of his enemy as when away from him.

Harsh Words From Fair Lips.

At one of the latest dinners given at Newport, a flurry was occasioned by one of the invited guests, a very popular society woman of the city, refusing to sit down at the table.

"Are you not well, my dear?" asked her hostess.

"Yes, I am," was the prompt reply. "But I will not sit at the same table with that woman there, who has slandered and lied about me."

The woman indicated jumped up and opened fire in return, and it looked as if the police would have to be called in, when the first woman had the presence of mind to faint. She was sent home in a coach, and the alleged slanderer remained in possession of the field.

Even After Five Years.

It was at the engraving counter in Tiffany's that the following was overheard. A pretty young woman who did not look as if she had been married so long, was ordering cards for a reception commemorating the fifth anniversary of her wedding day:

"Put Mr. and Mrs. on them," she said to the clerk.

The young man politely objected. "It is not done now usually," he said.

"I don't care," rejoined his customer with a bright look and a little laugh. "I'm proud of my husband, and I want him on the cards, and at my 'At Home.' I'll let my friends know," she finished, turning to a young woman who was with her, "that we are living happily together even after five years."

LOOKING FOR HER BEDROOM.

A Conductor's Experience in a Sleeping Car with a Passenger.

'A sleeping car conductor sees some of the most ludicrous as well as pathetic sights to be found anywhere," said a Pullman official who had risen from the ranks. 'I remember when I ran from New York to Chicago, and if I get blue I conjure up the funny incidents of my experience on the road. The newly married couple with their ludicrous endearments—I mean ludicrous to the general observer—are, of course, a source of fun to many of the passengers, but being a married man myself of course I have a warm spot for others who are entering that happy condition.

'My funniest experience was on the Pennsy, when I was running the through line, long before the limited was thought of. A middle-aged woman, accompanied by a boy, boarded the train at Harrisburg and, unluckily for them, they both held upper berth checks. Neither had ever been in a sleeper before, and when night came on the woman began a diligent search of the car. The porter asked her if she had lost anything, and she gave him a negative answer. He at last became frightened and came to me, thinking her crazy. When I asked her what was the matter she said, 'Nothing; but I am looking for the bedroom.' I told her there was no regular bedroom, but would have their berths made up. She watched the porter intently and when finished I told her they were ready. 'Are those them?' she said, 'why do you think I sleep on a shelf? Those things are not beds, why I can't undress. Young man, you are a swindler to ask me to pay for the privilege of sleeping on the upper shelf in that cupboard.' Many of the passengers were convulsed with laughter, and finally a young man who had a lower berth exchanged it for the upper one.

'I afterward carried that woman a number of times but she tried to avoid me if possible.'

A Dig in the Ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphraghm, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chappy whose liver is out of order. When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is furred, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulderblade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest anti-billious and alterative medicine extant. Incomparable is it, also, for dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney trouble, and fever and ague.

Victoria's Crown.

Queen Victoria's Crown, kept with other royal regalia under strong guard at the old Tower, and worn only on state occasions, is one of the most costly insignias in existence. To begin with, there are twenty diamonds around the circlet or head-band, each worth $7,500, or $140,000 for the set. Besides these twenty there are two extra large centre diamonds each valued at $10,000, making $20,000 more; fifty-four smaller diamonds, placed at angles of the others, each valued at $500: four crosses, each worth $60,000, and composed of twenty-five diamonds: four large diamonds on top of crosses, each having a money value of $5,000, twelve diamonds in the fleur-de-lis, $50,000: eighteen smaller diamonds contained in the same, $10,000; pearls, diamonds and rubies upon arches and circlets not mentioned before, $50,000: also 141 small diamonds formed in roses and monograms, $25,000: twenty-six diamonds in upper cross, $15,000: two circles of pearls about the rim of the head-piece, $15,000 each. The total money value of this relic in any jeweler's market in the world would be at least $60,000, metal and all included.

—Here is something even worse than the gad as a controlling power in the public schools. A so called woman teacher in a school in Chester county adopted the very ingenious method of covering the mouths of her pupils with sticking plaster to prevent their talking. It is altogether probable that this teacher will have an opportunity of testing the degree of comfort to be found in a prison cell, and that her occupation as a teacher will be of little value to her in the future.

The Art of Prosperity.

The Eureka man has been doing for some time past considerable advertising, and as I do not want to get all the good there is in this world, let my brother merchants take a word of advice from me. Some have said to me, "Well, you can afford it, it don't cost you anything." But listen. I do not get it for nothing. The Eureka Grocery store pays for every line of advertising it does, and I have not put a single column into the papers that has not paid two dollars for every one spent by myself or that would have to be spent by any other store in town that would attempt the same thing. And we are now just beginning to reap the full benefit of this labor.

Ask anyone at all acquainted with our business and they will tell you that it is constantly increasing; that it has constantly increased ever since we began, and that our success is due to newspaper advertising. I do not want to be the only merchant in town that can truthfully say that while all around us works are stopping, men rae complaining that work is dull, that the Eureka is the only store whose business is not feeling the depression.

I am conducting three newspapers in this town and I can now speak from experience when I say to you that it will pay you to advertise in these papers; that it will help you much more than your wildest fancy dreams. I will set the Eureka advertisements into the remotest corner to give you the best place, or just the place you want.

People will read the Eureka articles any how, no matter where I place them Now, believe me, "it is straight,' I know it will do you good, and in the light of my own experience I advise you to try it, and if any of your customers want anything you have not got send them to the Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa., and we will supply them, and then look out. You may never get them back again, but if you don't we will blame that on Smith, that is if you are in the grocery trade.

Tell me not that advertising
Is at best an empty dream,
For its charms are more surprising
(and the Eureka man, who has tried it tells you plainly that its effects are far more astonishing.)
Than its dull old-fashioned practitioners could ever deem.

And which ever way thou turnest
Thou will find upon the whole,
Those who advertise in earnest
(Yes, we have only to glance at the most successful firms all over the country to see that those who do the thing properly)
Soonest reach the wished-for goal.

Would'st thou then a lesson borrow?
Would'st thou know the royal way?
Advertise then so to-morrow
(Don't let a little expense deter you; you are merely casting your bread upon the waters, and you will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that each to-morrow)
Finds thee richer than to-day.

Advertise then! No retreating!
Let the senseless crockers rave:
While your heart with hope is beating
(You will always find a lot of people in Bellefonte as everywhere else who are blind to their interests; but while you are making fame and fortune)
They will find oblivion's grave.

Printer's ink will lead the battle—
Printer's ink, the balm of life;
Printer's ink—no din, no rattle—
(No, it does it's work on the quiet; and in the great war of competition which is now going on in this town, when judiciously and thickly laid on, it always)
Leads the van against the strife.

Advertisers oft remind us
We can make success sublime,
Make our pile and leave behind us
(Exactly, that's just where it comes in. We not only expect to feather our own nest, but we at the Eureka hope to provide for the prosperity and well-being of generations yet unborn, and so leave behind us)
What defies the touch of time.

Seeing which, perchance another
Struggling man with weary brain,
Some non-advertising brother,
(A good example is always to be commended, especially in the matter of advertising; and many a struggling business man seeing the secret of our success)
May with wisdom try again.

Advertise then: Up and doing!
So advert a meaner fate,
And, the wiser course pursuing,
(You will find that you will soon be in a position to look the world in the face, if you will only)
Learn to advertise and wait!

Of course, there are many ways of advertising, but we are of the opinion that there is no form or method so effective as newspaper advertising. It goes right into the home, and it goes to stay. I do not suppose that an "add" of "New Spring Goods," put in the paper and never changed the year through would do the work it should. I never tried that method. Such an "add" would have to do its most effective work, at least I should think, in the first three months.

Personally, we have always looked upon such work as a public notice that here is a careless merchant. But if you will take hold of this matter, and give it the same attention that you would or should give any other important matter, it can no do otherwise than pay. I speak to you in the light of a year's experience and "I am giving it to you straight."

A BLOODY CHAPTER.

One More Black Murder Caused by the Hatfield-McCoy Feud.

A WAR OF EXTERMINATION.

Both Sides Have Been Largely Re-enforced, Are Well Armed and Ready to Battle to the Death—Military Interference Asked For.

MILTON, W. Va., Nov. 2.—One more dark deed has been done to be chronicled in the history of the feud between the Hatfield and McCoy families. A skirmish occurred Wednesday night in which Mrs. James Brown was killed and John Blumfield was wounded by a detachment of the McCoy party in ambush. The feud has now assumed the aspect of a war of extermination, and the battle which has been delayed for forty-eight hours may begin at any minute. The only thing which has kept the Hatfields from attacking the McCoys was the strong force and intrenched position of the latter. But the situation is now entirely changed.

250 Armed Men.

The Blumfield family, stung to frenzy by the wanton butchery of Al Blumfield and his wife, have decided to join the Hatfields in an attempt to exterminate the McCoys. This will give the Hatfield leaders at least 250 armed men. Wednesday John Blumfield, Charles Blumfield and George Hatfield, all of them cousins of the murdered pair, went to Huntington and recruited about a dozen of their relatives, who work there in the Cincinnati and Ohio shops.

They then purchased all the rifles and revolvers they could find in the place, securing in all about 100 repeaters of recent model and nearly 130 revolvers. They also bought several thousand cartridges. This supply of war material was loaded upon ten wagons, and they were driven south toward the scene of the Lincoln county feud, surrounded by a guard of fifteen desperate men, armed to the teeth. No attempt was made to stop them, as the county authorities are powerless.

Fired at from Ambush.

The cavalcade was attacked at Fudge's Creek, near the Guyandotte river, that night by a party of McCoys in ambush near the farmhouse of Mrs. James Brown, who was a Hatfield before she was married. The Hatfields had stopped for supper, and were eating when a volley was poured through the windows. They were taken by surprise, but seized their rifles and returned the fire.

It was pitch dark, and it is not known whether any of the McCoys were hurt, as the Hatfields were afraid to make a search in the underbrush. When Blumfield's men returned to the house Mrs. Brown lay dead upon the floor, with a bullet through the neck, and John Blumfield, the leader of the party, was found to be wounded, but it is impossible to learn how seriously.

Intense Excitement.

This last affair has stirred up feeling here to the highest pitch, and it has been determined to call on the governor for troops. Every one recognizes, however, that regular militia can do little, for they will be ignorant of the country and its thousands of hiding places, and would be shot down from ambush. There is some talk of organizing a company of state rangers, modeled on the Texas plan, but no one can be found to assume the leadership. No reports from the scene of the Blumfield funeral have been received.

Ended His Spree with a Bullet.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 2.—George H. Latham, representing Barry, Thayer & Co., of Boston, cotton brokers, has been found dead in his office here. He had been on a spree for some days and had transacted no business since Oct. 22. He ended the spree, after being reprimanded by one of the firm, by shooting himself. The shooting must have taken place early this week. Latham was 42 years of age and belonged in Warren, R. I.

To Try the Baltimore Again.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—Mr. Charles Cramp denied the report from Washington that the ship building firm has concluded not to ask a new trial for the cruiser Baltimore. He says that there will be a re-trial to test the horse power of the vessel.

Sickness at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—Dr. Seaver, college physician, is growing anxious over the unfavorable weather, which he fears will cause more sickness at Yale, such as malaria, diarrhea and the like. No new cases of typhoid have appeared.

Broke His Neck, Arms and Legs.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2.—Henry Miller, aged 18, a slate roofer, fell from the new Warner street school house, a distance of sixty feet, and broke his neck, both arms and legs.

BRIEF MENTION.

The will of Henry J. Sheers, of Providence, R. I., bequeaths $1,139,000, of which $340,000 is left to charitable institutions.

James Edward Calhoun, brother-in-law and cousin of John C. Calhoun, died in Abbeville, N. C., aged 93. He was very wealthy.

Sixteen workmen were buried under the falling walls of a new dwelling house in Passaic City, N. J., and six of them seriously injured.

Patrick Hughes, of Scranton, Pa., was fatally stabbed and shot by Martin Sultz during a drunken quarrel at Sultz's residence. The latter's little daughter, aged 11, was an accessory, having handed her father the gun wherewith he shot Hughes.

The Pennsylvania Society of Christian Endeavor adjourned its annual meeting in Harrisburg, and chose Pittsburg as the next place of meeting.

The eighth annual national convention of the Women's Home Missionary society has begun in Indianapolis. The evening was devoted to exercises in memory of Mrs. R. B. Hayes.

The steamship Rio Grande has arrived in New York and reports passing the wreckage of the steamship Brooklyn off Fenwick Island, thus leaving no doubt of the loss of the vessel with her crew.

William C. Temer, a Frenchman, who has shown proofs that his real name and title was Count De Vermont, has been sentenced in New York to five years' imprisonment for forging a number of checks.

A sheriff's posse again ran across Rube Burrows, the Alabama outlaw, who fired three shots at his pursuers and escaped in the woods.

Heavy floods prevailed in Italy owing to the River Po overflowing its banks, and several lives are reported lost.

The Catholic congress, to be held in Baltimore, Md., November 10th to 13th, promises to bring together a very large assemblage of the clergy, the laity, and the church organizations, from the entire union. The scope of the meeting has far outgrown the original indications and in view of these considerations the Pennsylvania railroad company has arranged to sell excursion tickets to all visitors to Baltimore on this occasion at a single fare for the round trip.

The tickets will be sold from all stations on the Pennsylvania railroad system, November 7 to 12, valid for return until November 16, 1889. All tickets sold from Pittsburg and stations west of Latrobe will read to Washington, but will be sold at the Baltimore rate, and will admit of stopping off in Raltimore within the face limit, so that excursionists may enjoy the privilege of visiting both cities.

The proper time to reform and do right is when one is convinced he is doing wrong. And I think the past, the present and the outlook for the future is sufficient proof that the Republican ticket this fall is the proper ticket to vote and that it is absolutely wrong to vote with a party that would leave the "latch string" hanging out for other nations to pull at will. Young man, voting for the first time this fall, make a note of this fact. Be wise, be brave, and vote for the principles that saved this great nation on more than one notable occasion, and ranked her, without a peer, among the nations of the world. Though your father may have been a Democrat all his life, and your uncle a Prohibitionist, you can honor and love them just as much, and I am sure do them more real good by facing Jerusalem and voting the Republican ticket. Do right and you will prosper. Vote for home and your children shall not want.

TO ADVERTISERS!

How to Get the Most Service for the Money!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Newspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and solicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the case cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week; but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Thomas B. Sanders May Be Chosen Commissioner of Navigation.

LIGHTS FOR SMALL CRAFT.

Interesting Questions Discussed by the Maritime Conference—Quartermaster Holabird's Report—George Bidwell and His Brother.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—There is a pretty strong feeling inside the Treasury Department that Secretary Windom, in choosing a commissioner of navigation to succeed Mr. Morton, might do worse than promote the present deputy commissioner, Thomas B. Sanders. Mr. Sanders has been connected with the bureau a number of years and is thoroughly conversant with its duties. Under the last Republican commissioner, Jarvis Patten, he is said to have been, to all practical intents, the chief of the office, Mr. Patten having certain specialties to which he devoted most of his attention.

A Pleasing Tribute.

A very pleasant tribute was paid to the accomplishments of the deputy commissioner when he was ordered the other day to report to the American delegation in the international marine conference, as being the best qualified man in the government employ to answer questions and make explanations and suggestions about the particular branch of the service in which he is engaged.

The Maritime Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The international marine conference resumed business promptly at 11 o'clock. It was agreed that the conference, after disposing of articles one and three, should proceed to consider all the other divisions on the programme, and that a number of small committees be appointed to aid the conference in disposing of the different subjects.

The regular order of business was then taken up.

An amendment previously offered by the delegate from Belgium to article 4, to provide that a tug wishing to offer her services to a vessel shall exhibit to such vessel, in addition to the ordinary lights, a white and red flare up alternately, was postponed until the report of the committee on lights for small vessels is received.

An amendment previously offered to the same article by the delegate from Italy, providing that a sailing vessel, when towing another vessel, shall, in addition to her side lights, carry a white light above each of her side lights, at a distance of four feet, was rejected.

Signals to Indicate a Tow.

An amendment previously offered by the delegate from Sweden, providing that a sailing vessel, when towing another disabled vessel at night, shall carry some distinctive lights, provided that some such light can be determined upon by the conference, was taken up, discussed and adopted.

The amendment previously proposed by Delegate Norcross, of the United States, providing for the carrying of an additional light by a steamer for each vessel she may have in tow, was read and withdrawn.

An amendment previously proposed by the delegates from Great Britain, regulating the size, position, etc., of lights to be shown by ships not under command, was taken up and agreed to. Recess was then taken.

The Quartermaster's Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Quartermaster General S. B. Holabird, of the army, has submitted his annual report to the secretary of war. He recommended the enlistment of men for the quartermaster general's department; the establishment of drill halls for winter exercise of troops, and states that repairs are needed to the roads leading to the national cemeteries at Charlotte, Fort Scott, Kansas; Natchez, Miss.; Springfield, Mo.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Mound City, Ills.; Richmond, Va., and Vicksburg, Miss.

He also recommends that permanent means of approach be established to the national cemeteries at Alexandria, Va.; Arlington, Va.; Culpepper, Va.; Fredericksburg, Va.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Fort Gibson, I. T.; Keokuk, Ia.; Poplar Grove, Va.; Fort Hudson, La.; Staunton, Va.; Seven Pines, Va., and Yorktown, Va.

Trying to Save His Brother.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—George Bidwell, whose connection with the great Bank of England forgeries a number of years ago made him notorious, had an interview with Solicitor Walker Blaine at the state department in regard to the case of his brother, who is serving a life sentence in England for his complicity in the forgeries. Both Bidwells are citizens of the United States and George is endeavoring to have this government do something toward securing his brother's release. George Bidwell was pardoned in 1886, and since his release has published a book of his experiences.

A Murderer Respited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The President has granted a respite until Jan. 8, 1890, to David Lemmans, who was sentenced to be hanged, Nov. 6, in Kansas for murder committed on an Indian reservation.

A pardon has been granted to John A. Kimball, under sentence for violating the postal laws in Utah.

A Big Lumber Fire.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 6.—Fire destroyed Leonard's mill dock, on the north side of Muskegon lake, about four miles from this city, together with the lumber and shingles piled thereon. Spreading, the fire destroyed the large mill and lumber piles, amounting to 6,000,000 feet, of Hovey & McCracken. The fire also destroyed the docks of the North Muskegon Shingle company, with a large amount of stock. The loss is not yet known, but cannot fall less than $150,000.

An Editor's Life.

One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is in his deadheading it on all occasions. No one who has never feasted on the sweets of that bliss can begin to take in the glory of its happiness. He does $100 worth of advertising for a railroad, gets a "pass" for a year, rides $25 worth and then he is looked upon as a deadhead or a half-blown dead-beat. He "puffs" a concert troupe $10 worth and gets $1 in complimentaries, and is thus passed "free;" If the hall is crowded he is be-grudged the room he occupies, for if his complimentaries were paying tickets the troupe would be so much in pocket. He blows and puffs a church festival free to any desired extent and does the poster printing at half rates and rarely gets a thank you for it. It goes as part of his duty as an editor. He does more work gratuitously for the town and community than all the rest of the population put together, and gets cursed for it all, while in many instances where a man who donates a few dollars to Fourth of July celebration, base club, or church, is gratfully remembered. Oh, it is a sweet thing to be an editor. He passes "free," you know.—Exchange.

A Dig in the Ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphraghm, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chappy whose liver is out of order. When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is furred, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulderblade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest anti-billious and aiterative medicine extant. Incomparable is it, also, for dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney trouble, and fever and ague.

THE VEIN SHE WAS IN.—Papa—"Which of your suitors do you think you will accept, Marie, Jones or Smith?"

Marie—"Which would you favor, papa?"

"Well, Smith has a fine vein of humor."

But Jones has a fine vein of anthracite coal upon his farm, papa. I think I'll take him."

"Sensible girl!"

CONSUMPTION CURED

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. MARRIED!—Lecturer on phrenology, cautiously, to man selected by the audience for free examination—"Married, I presume?"

Man—"Yes."

Lecturer, with confidence—"Many, of the protuberances, ladies and gentlemen, which we find upon the heads of persons in various walks of life may be passed by as having no phrenological significance, as in the case of the gentleman whom I am now," etc.

Dumplings with Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be dainty and wholesome, and may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

RECEIPT.—One quart of flour; thoroughly mix with it three teaspoons of Royal Baking Powder and a small teaspoon of salt; rub in a piece of butter or lard the size of an egg, and then add one large potato, grated in the flour; after the butter is well mixed, stir in milk and knead to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; break off pieces of dough large enough to close over four quarters of an apple (or other fruit as desired) without rolling, and lay in an earthen dish (or steamer) and steam until the fruit is tender. Bake if preferred.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes more appetizing and wholesome food and is more economical. Royal Baking Powder is specially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.

How to Save.

The way to keep money is to earn it fairly and honestly. Money so obtained is pretty certain to abide with its possessor. But money that is inherited, or that in any way comes without a fair and just equivalent, is almost certain to go as it came. The young man who begins by saving a few dollars a month, and thriftily increases his store—every coin being a representative of good, solid work, honestly and manfully done, stands a better chance to spend the last half of his life in affluence and comfort than he who, in his haste to become rich, obtains money by the dashing speculations, or devious means which abound in the foggy region lying between fair dealing and actual fraud. Among the wisest and most thrifty men of wealth the current proverb is—money goes as it comes. Let the young make a note of this, and see that it may long abide with them.

Barney Martin, a noted character of Tionesta, who once beat Forest county out of thousands of dollars by manufacturing wildcats' ears out of those of the quiet hog and collecting the bounty upon them, was recently acquitted of selling liquor without a license.

W. Brockway, aged 36, and Miss Maggie Hartzell, aged 17, went to the clerk's office in Clarion recently, took out a marriage license, and were married right on the spot by Commissioner Bell.

Edward Tilliston, killed a few days ago on the Pennsylvania Road at Kennet Square, had a presentment of his death. When he kissed his wife his last geod-bye he said: "You may never see me again."

THERE is a story told of a lady who one day went to call on Fuseli, a painter, who, when there was no need for it, could express himself with emphasis. Her ceaseless chatter did not even allow him to get in a word edgeway. At last a pause to take breath gave him time to say, "We had boiled mutton and turnips for dinner today." "What a strange observation, Mr. Fuseli" exclaimed the lady. "Why," he said, "It is as good as anything you have been saying for the last two hours."

IN MEMORY OF COL. J. H. STOVER.

The Brilliant Public, Private and Military Career of a Former Centre county Man.

Col. John H. Stover, who died at Aurora Springs, Miller county, Missouri, on October 27th, a notice of which appeared in this paper at the time, was so well and favorably known throughout this county that we to-day give a more extended notice of the brilliant career of his life, for which we are indebted to the Versailles Statesman, published in Morgan county, Mo.:

Col. Stover was born in Centre county Pennsylvania, in 1833, was educated at the public schools of Centre county and at Central Academy, Juniata county, Pennsylvania. Was admitted to the bar in 1857 in Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, where he resided and practiced law until the firing on Fort Sumpter, at which time he enlisted in the 2d Penn. Infantry for the three months service. He soon after, by the advice of Gov. Curtin, raised Co. B of the 10th Penn. Infantry, and was made Captain of the same. Col. Stover was afterward appointed Major of the 106th Pennsylvania Infantry. In 1864 he was appointed Colonel of the 184th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Infantry. He was in the battles of Falling Water, Va., also in the battles of Savage Station, Peach Orchard, Glendale, Malvern Hills, Antietam; at the last named battle he received seven bullet holes through his clothes. He was at the first and second battles of Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Robinson's Tavern, Mine Run and in the battles before Petersburg. He was present at the capture of General Lee. Col. Stover was in command of the 79th, 71st, and 72d, Penn Infantries at various times. He was mustered out, at the grand review at Washington, in 1865 and was at the time in command of the 2d Brigade, 2d Division. He returned after the war to Pennsylvania, where he remained but a short time, and then moved to Versailles, Morgan county, Mo. In 1868 he was elected to Congress. In 1870 he received the nomination of Secretary of State, but owing to a split in the Republican party was defeated. In 1872 he was nominated by the Republicans for Lieutenant-Governor. In 1876 he was appointed Commissioner to the Centennial Exposition, by Gov. Woodson, and in the fall of the same year was again nominated by his party for Congress, against his protest on account of ill health, and was defeated by Gov. Crittenden. Col. Stover was a member of Samuel McClure Post, No. 145, G. A. R. department of Missouri, also a member of A. F. & A. M. Thanksgiving Day.

The President has issued the following proclamation appointing Thursday, November 28, as Thanksgiving Day:

A highly favored people mindful of their dependence on the bounty of Divine Providence, should seek fitting occasion to testify gratitude and ascribe praise to Him who is the author of their many blessings. It behooves us then to look back with thankful hearts over the past year and thank God for His infinite mercy in vouchsafing to our land enduring peace, to our people freedom from pestilence and famine, to our husbandmen abundant harvests and to them that labor a recompense of their toil. Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do earnestly recommend that Thursday, the 28th of this present month of November, be set apart as a day of National Thanksgiving and prayers, and that the people of our country, ceasing from the cares and labors of their working day, shall assemble in their respective places of worship and give thanks to God, who has prospered us on our way and made our paths the paths of peace, beseeching Him to bless the day to our present and future good, making it truly one of thanksgiving for each reunited home circle as for the nation at large.

Lady Washington Tea.

On next Thursday evening, November 7th, Mrs. George L. Potter and Mrs. James H. Potter, representing the ladies of the Presbyterian church, will give a "Lady Washington" Tea in the vacant store room in Bush Arcade, next door to the post office. Chicken, oysters, biscuit, rolls, coffee and a long list of other good edibles will constitute the bill of fare on this occasion, and a ticket for the supper will cost but 35 cents. The proceeds of this series of suppers and entertainments now being held by the ladies of the Presbyterian church are to be devoted to repairing and refurnishing the church, a very worthy object and one that should command the patronage of all. Let everybody in Bellefonte drop in next Thursday evening and get their supper.

The Result of Saturday's Inquest.

The adjourned inquest over the dead infant found near the Centre Iron Company's Works was convened in Justice of the Peace Linn's office on Saturday at eleven o'clock. Several bits of evidence were produced that had considerable bearing on the case, but before the inquest was completed the young woman, Annie Kriner, who was arrested and lodged in jail for concealing the child where it was found, confessed to being the mother of same. The jury, in their finding could not say whether the child had been murdered or what caused its death.

Milesburg Musings.

Mr. Boggs, our new postmaster, has just put in place a new set of boxes which are very handsome—a great improvement over their predecessors which had served through so many administrations.

Rev. Cross, who has accepted the pastorate of the Bellefonte, Milesburg and Unionville Baptist churches, preached his introductory sermon in this place on Saturday. He puts considerable western vim into his sermons which are methodical, logical and earnest. He expects to make Bellefonte his place of residence.

"Capt. Joe" Green, of this place, gave a reception to his neice and newly acquired nephew, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, at his residence on Thursday of last week. A number of Bellefonte friends were present and an exceedingly pleasant time is reported.

Mr. William B. Miles' remodeled store room is a credit to that gentleman's proverbial enterprise, and a specimen of architectural skill of which Milesburg may justly be proud.

The Presbyterians of this place have broken ground for their new church building. The establishment of a church is a public benefit in which all members of the community should consider themselves interested to the extent of lending a helping hand.

Mrs. Phoebe Malone's funeral, which took place from the Baptist church, of which she was a member, on October 29th, was very largely attended. Mrs. Malone was a life long resident of Milesburg and many friends followed her remains, sorrowfully, to their last resting place.

Making Country Roads.

The roads should be worked at proper times. The need of the dirt road is little repairs often made. The common practice is to do almost all the work after "corn-planting." This is wrong, for two reasons: It is too late for the best results, and too much is to be done at one time. Six inches of earth or gravel will make a far better road if put on in layers of, say, two inches at intervals of a month or so, than will the entire amount applied at once. Just as soon as the roads are settled in the spring, and before they have become dry and hard, the scraper should be put to work, leveling and filling the ruts worn during the winter, and slightly rounding the road bed towards the centre.

The ground being still moist, and not compact as at the usual time of doing this; the work can be done more easily and rapidly and the road will pack better. Later, a light coat of earth or gravel, to be followed by another when the first becomes packed hard, and this in turn by a third, if possible. Lastly, in the fall the entire road should be gone over to see that all gutters and bridges are free, that the road may not be washed out by winter storms and spring rains. All mudholes, of course, should be filled promptly at all times, so that no water may stand in the road, and loose stones should be removed at least once a month.

Scalp Bounty.

The Cameron county Press mentions that the scalp bounty law has been declared unconstitutional, and no more premiums on scalps will be paid. It is important that justices who are in the habit of cashing these orders and then getting their money back from the county should make a note of this—it may be the means of saving them several dollars.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Miss Clara Mulhollan is teaching school at Mehafley, Clearfield county.

Mrs. Thomas Cameron returned to New Haven, Pa., last week.

Mr. Joseph Yothers will move in one of the houses owned by Mrs. Hinkston, on the pike above Karthaus, Karthaus bridge will soon be completed and then that young gentleman and lady who remained on this side and chatted while the other lady went across and attended to some shopping, will have no excuse for not going on the other side.

Mr. Samuel Hoover has made quite an improvement to his house by the addition of a coat of white paint.

Mr. Beightol and Mr. Ed Craft have both built new houses. Mr. C. has already moved into his and everything looks comfortable and cosy around his little home.

The protracted meeting in Messiah church closed Sunday night, October 27th. The meetings Saturday evening, Sunday and Sunday evening were not argely attended on account of rain but the few who were there manifested a great interest. On Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Ebersole discoursed from the text found in Hebrew 13:14. Among the congregation was Judge Furst, of Bellefonte, who, at the time, was the guest of Mr. G. R. Boak.

"Veni, Vidi, Vici".

The Exposition is closed until October next. We saw it; it was great, being in its infancy, but we saw enough to convince ourselves of the fact that enterprise, such as displayed there, should not be passed by without some comment. But we still wonder why it was that only one whole-sale liquor house was so boldly represented. You could see its pyramid of bottles from any part of the great building. It was the prettiest display there. Max Klein has proved to the public that he wants to be seen. Proper Bible Wine.

Alfred Speer, who has large vineyards near Passaic N. J., is extensively engaged in preserving Unfermented Grape Juice from the Oporto Grapes and supplies it to many religious societies for Communion purposes. The following is from Dr. John Ellis who has written several works on Bible wine: "The writer obtained from Mr. Speer a bottle of his Unfermented Wine and found it a very pleasant and nutrious wine. A chemist put a portion of this wine into a retort and distilled and condensed about one third of the contents of the retort. The distilled had neither the smell nor taste of alcohol, nor did chemical tests indicate any trace of alcohol."

SOME grocers are so short sighted as to decline to keep the "IVORY SOAP," claiming it does not pay as much profit as inferior qualities do, so if your regular grocer refuses to get it for you, there are undoubtedly others who recognize the fact that the increased volume of business done by reason of keeping the best articles more than compensates for the smaller profit, and will take pleasure in getting it for you.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and Insist upon getting it.

Complete and Permanent.

In the early part of last year I had a violent attack of rheumatism, from which I was confined to my bed for over three months, and at times was unable to turn myself in bed, or even raise the cover. A nurse had to be in constant attendance day and night. I was so feeble that what little nourishment I took had to be given me with a spoon. I was in constant agony, and sleep was entirely out of the question except when I was under the influence of opiates.

After calling in my best local physicians, and trying all other medicines without receiving any benefit, I was induced by friends to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S). I discontinued all other medicines, and took a course of S. S. S—thirteen small bottles—which effected a complete and permanent cure.

The Chamber of Tortures.

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, and malaria are relieved by it.

The Management of Petroleum Lamps

In view of the numerous fatal and other accidents caused by petroleum lamps, the following suggestions as to the construction and management of such lamps have been made by Sir Frederick Abel and Mr. Boverton Redwood, chemist of the Petroleum Association, after investigating the causes of lamp accidents:

1. That portion of the wick which is in the oil reservoir should be inclosed in a tube of thin sheet metal, open at the bottom; or in a cylinder of fine wire gauze,, such as is used in miners' safety lamps [28 meshes to an inch].
2. The oil reservoir should be of metal, rather than of china or glass.
3. The oil reservoir should have no feeding place nor opening other than the opening into which the upper part of the lamp is screwed.
4. Every lamp should have a proper extinguishing apparatus.
5. Every lamp should have a broad and heavy base.
6. Wicks should be soft and not tightly plaited.
7. Wicks should be dried at the fire before being put into lamps.
8. Wicks should be only just long enough to reach the bottom of the oil reservoir.
9. Wicks should be so wide that they quite fill the wick holder without having to be squeezed into it.
10. Wicks should be soaked with oil before being lit.
11. The reservoir should be quite filled with oil every time before using the lamp.
12. The lamp should be kept thoroughly clean, all oil should be carefully wiped off, and all charred wick and dirt removed before lighting.
13. When the lamp is lit, the wick should be at first turned down and then slowly raised.
14. Lamps which have no extinguishing apparatus should be put out as follows: The wick should be turned down until there is only a small flickering flame, and a sharp puff of breath should be sent across the top of the chimney, but not down it.
15. Cans or bottles used for oil should be free from water and dirt, and should be kept thoroughly closed.

Value of Clover as a Fertilizer.

Some idea of the value of clover as a fertilizing crop may be obtained from the experiments of Prof. Lawes, a distinguished agricultural chemist in England. According to a careful analysis made by him, the manure from a ton of straw is worth about $2.60—taking the price of chemical fertilizers as a basis. The manure from a ton of clover hay is worth a little more than $9.00—or more than three times as much.

The value of any yard manure depends mainly upon the amount of potash, nitrogen, and phosphoric acid it contains, the carbonaceous or woody matter being usually in excess of that required by the soil; excepting perhaps on sandy land that has been long cultivated without stable manure.

Was it Infanticide?

A YOUNG WOMAN CARRIES A BUNDLE WHICH SHE HIDES BEHIND A TREE AND ON EXAMINATION IT IS

FOUND TO BE A DEAD CHILD

THE WOMAN FOLLOWED, PLACED UNDER ARREST, AND NOW LODGES IN JAIL.

A Post-mortem Examination Made and a Coroner's Inquest Held.

Horror of horrors! Murder, outright deliberate murder, although at no time excusable yet there are instances of crime when it does seem as if the perpetrators could in fact be overlooked because of ungovernable temper and uncontrolable aggravation, but when humanity falls so low as to commit crime against the weak and helpless infant it is then time to call a halt.

The little village around the Centre Iron Company's works was thrown into a state of excitement on Friday afternoon such as it has not experienced for years by the announcement that the body of a dead infant had been found at the foot of a tree in a piece of neighboring woods.

On Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock a young woman, slight of build and of fair complexion, wearing a dark dress and blue sacque, with a hat of some dark material and carrying a good sized bundle wrapped in a newspaper under her left arm passed out the pike from Bellefonte until she reached the road that leads from the old Valentine's works up to the farm of William Houser. She went up this road till she passed the house of William Saylor when she made as if to lay the bundle down by a stump, but, observing that she was being watched by members of the Saylor family, she continued quite a distance farther up the road until she had arrived at, what she thought, a place secure from all observation, but where she was in full view, and there she deposited the bundle on the ground and partly covered it with dirt and leaves and also laid one large stone and stick of wood on top of it.

She then retraced her steps at a moderate pace. After she had gone out of sight of the place, Alice and Bella Saylor went to see what was in the bundle she had left by the tree. On untying it they were horrified to find the body of a dead male infant all securely tied together with a strong cord. The two sisters hurried away from the place and at once made known the ghastly discovery, also sending their younger sister, Mertie, to follow the young woman who had so mysteriously placed the child in that place.

She was followed to Bellefonte and the first place she stopped at was on the porch of the house on corner of Spring and High streets now occupied by Mr. George Potts. Here she conversed with some female friends, but all the time appeared ill at ease and very nervous. In the mean time the little girl that followed the young woman met her father, William Saylor, and William Long and to them she told the story, and Sheriff Cooke happening along at the time was also informed of the affair. The Sheriff at once set a watch on the woman and then went to Justice of the peace, John B. Linn, and got a warrant for her arrest on the charge of "Infanticide."

In the meantime the girl left the place where she had temporarily stopped, and went down to the Bush House, where she was when placed under arrest. It was then learned that her name was Carrie Krainer, and that she had been employed at the Bush House for some time back. She was taken before Justice Linn, when Mr. Teller offered to go bail for her, but on such a charge bail is not admissible, and she was confined in the jail for a final hearing.

District Attorney Meyer, Justice Linn, Sheriff Cooke and Dr. George W. Harris then proceeded to the place near where the body was found and where it had been removed, when a coroner's jury was empaneled and an inquest convened. A post mortem examination was made by Dr. Harris who gave it as his opinion that the child was probably two days old, and that it had been born alive and that death was caused by hemorrhage of the chord, either ignorantly or intentionally.

The jury sworn was composed of the following men: E. J. Swavely, William Houser, William Long, George Flack, William Wilson and William Saylor. After the jury had been sworn and viewed the body the taking of testimony was begun by hearing the evidence of Alice Saylor which was in brief as follows:

She was sitting on the porch when the young woman passed carrying a bundle wrapped in a newspaper. Her nervous actions attracted attention and Alice Saylor watched her. Saw her go to lay bundle down at stump then hesitate and pass on. Finally saw her lay it down at the tree and partly cover it. When she had departed and was gone most out of sight Alice and her sister Bella went to see what she had hid and found a dead baby. They returned to the house and sent a younger sister to follow the girl with the result above described.

Mrs. Mary Wilson was the next sworn and examined. She testified that she first heard of the occurence from Mertie Saylor and then in company with Mrs. Hannah Flack went to where the child was found. The child was wrapped only in a newspaper and was in no ways discolored. This was about half past 4 o'clock. After the Sheriff and Justice had seen it Mrs. Wilson took the child to her own house where the inquest was held. She did not see the girl at all.

Mrs. Hannah Flack was next sworn and examined, she merely corroberated the testimony of Mrs. Wilson, and in addition described the girl, whom she had seen go up, as not tall, fair complexioned, light-hair, dark skirt and blue waist, and carried a bundle wrapped in a newspaper and said bundle was about 15 inches long.

Bella Saylor was the last person examined but her testimony was, in every detail like her sister's. The inquest then adjourned to be continued to-day in Justice Linn's office.

The young woman arrested at first appeared cool and unconcerned, but when she was taken into the cell she broke down and wept bitterly. She has no relatives living in town and her father lives in Punxsutawney. Her mother is dead.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Hastings in Ohio.

When General D. H. Hastings departed from Bellefonte he went direct to Ohio where he took part in the last meeting of the fall campaign held in Youngstown on Thursday evening. The dispatches from that place speak thusly of the part he took in the evening's gathering:

Adjt. Gen. Hastings, of Pennsylvania, was next introduced. His greeting was simply uproarous. His address was short, but full of fire and enthusiasm. "Pennsylvania," he said, "wants to see Ohio re-elect Gov. Foraker. Pennsylvania is the Gibraltar of Republicanism, and has in stock 100,000 majority for any emergency." He then showed the interest Pittsburgh takes in the Governor's election by pointing to the seats filled with members of the Americus club. He paid a glowing eulogy to Gov. Foraker by rehearsing the latter's brilliant war record, his celebrated reply to the demand for the return of the rebel flags, and his sending the first telegram Gen. Hastings received at Johnstown, in which he said he had sent 1,000 tents and $20,000 worth of provisions to the sufferers. He wound up by presenting Major McKinley with an Americus badge, consisting of a gold Keystone with a buck-eye suspended from it with red, white and blue silk ribbons.

After the meeting adjourned General Hastings and Senator Delamater left the house arm in arm, returning to Pittsburg the same night.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Disertion and oust the demon Dyspepsia and install instead Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at W C Keplinger & Co's Store.

The Sugar Valley Railroad.

The Italian railroad laborers at Loganton, this county, have "folded their tents like the Arabs and silently stolen away," just as was predicted they would do when the projectors and builders of the new road came there with such a flourish a few weeks ago. We believe they left word that they would return in the spring with the birds and flowers and the green foliage of the trees.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Work on the Bellefonte and Eastern Railway has been suspended for the present for obvious reasons, and the Italians have gone to a new field of labor. The work, however, will be resumed early next Spring, when the projectors will be better prepared to push the work through to completion. By this time next Fall we hope to see the road completely finished and in actual operation. —Sugar Valley Journal.

FATAL GUNNING ACCIDENT.

WHILE OUT RABBIT HUNTING WILLIAM MCPHERSON IS ACCIDETALLY SHOT.

So often of late comes the intelligence of an accident by carelessness or ignorance that it is a wonder that double caution is not observed by those who go gunning in the way they handle their weapons.

A special dispatch received here this morning announces that on Thursday afternoon Mr. William McPherson, of Weikert Station, Union county, went hunting for rabbits. He set his gun down on the ground, forgetting at the time that it was loaded and also cocked. In some way the trigger was touched and the gun went off, the shot entering Mr. McPherson's face below the right eye. He was found and taken home but died early last night.

Mr. McPherson was a married man and leaves a wife and two children. The event naturally casts a shadow of gloom over that community.

It is Observed.

That the winter styles are very bewitching.

That Hallowe'en was a bad night for prowlers.

That the average county newspaper is this week filled with little else but politics.

That it is soon time when some of the protracted religious meetings will be commenced.

That if the moneyed men of Bellefonte were as enterprising as those who have only limited capital this town could be made one of the best and liveliest in the state.

That the best way for a babe to attain maturity is to grow there, and not have some strange person pull it there. So is it with business men grow larger as you can yourself and be under obligations to no man for making you what you are.

That on Hallowe'en very little actual damage was done, for which the young of this place are to be highly commended. Of course, there was corn thrown in abundance, a few crossings, steps and gates misplaced, but nothing was broken or damaged so as to require actual cost in replacing or repairing.

The corn crop through Centre county is larger and of better quality this fall than it has been for some years, and farmers in general should be doubly thankful for this manifestation of Divine providence.

That the two thousand additional coal cars now under course of construction by the Pennsylvania railroad has already greatly relieved the blockade and piling up of coal at the mines, and gives excellent promise that in the near future coal men can ship and dealers receive coal with great promptness.

The Office Towel.

When I think of the towel, the old-fashioned towel, that used to hang up by the printing house door, I think that no body in these days of shoddy can hang out iron to wear as it wore. The tramp, who abused it; the devil, who used it; the comp, who got at it when these two were gone; the make-up and foreman; the editor, poor man, each rubbed some grime off while they put a heap on. In, over and under, 'twas harder than thunder; 'twas harder than poverty, rougher than sin; from the roller suspended, it never was bended, and flapped on the wall like a banner of tin. It grew thicker and rougher and harder and tougher, and daily put on a more inkier hue, until one morning, without any warning; it fell to the floor and was broken in two.

Anti-Poverty.

Rev. Dr. McGlynn the eminent and talented Priest who has devoted his life's labor to the best interest of the laboring class, whose sympathies with the necessities and wants of the poor have led him into disfavor at the vatician in Rome where no doubt the most aristocratic elements are upper-most in authority, will deliver one of his soul stirring discourses in the Court House November 19 upon those progressive topics which come under the head of Anti-Poverty and Land Tenure, Dr. McGlynn lectures by direction of Mr. Houghton of New York, and, placing him in all the chief cities and towns in the United States is a private enterprise not a manopoly. Do not fail to hear him. Price of admission will be made known later.

How to Tell a Counterfeit Bill.

Take a United States bill of any denomination and hold it up to the light, and you will see two lines running across it lengthwise. Upon examination you will find these to consist of a silk thread, a red one and a blue one. Every genuine bill has this mark of genuineness. Without these marks a bill may be put down as counterfeit no matter how good the engraving on it. No paper mill dare make that sort of paper, and that is the government's only protection on its currency.

New and Wonderful Preparations.

PSYCHE'S SECRET,
OR EXTRACT OF ORIENTAL ROSES FOR
Beautifying the Complection Making the Skin Soft, Fair and Rosy as a Healty Infant's.

A MIRACULOUS preparation, that imitates nature to such perfection as to positively defy detection, even with a microscope. Renders the skin semi-transparent, and harmonizes with the blood color of the face, making the pale cheek a beautiful roseate tinge. Imparts wondrous beauty to the skin, and brilliancy to the eyes; it is entirely different from any other preparation of the kind, as when applied it remains fixed for at least twenty-four hours, and will not wash or rub off, and yet, remember it is not a paint.

Psyche's Cream of Oriental Roses, An unrivaled preparation for the skin, guaranteed to contain nothing injurious. Cannot be detected. A substitue for face powder, etc., removes Tan, Freckles, and cures all skin diseases making the skin as soft, smooth, and fair as that of a healty infant.

PRICE OF EXTRACT, - - - - 50c
PRICE OF CREAM, - - - - $1.00.

EDISON'S
ELECTRO-CHEMICAL-FLUID.

For the Permanent Removal of Superfluous Hair.

From the Forehead, Lips, Chin, Arms, or any portion of the Face or Body, without Pain.

AFTER centuries of fruitless study and research by the world's ablest chemists, we have at last discovered a liquid preparation which we guarantee to permanently remove superfluous hair from any part of the face or body in two minutes, without pain or injury to the skin.

There are many depilatories for the removal of superfluous hair, but all of them are either inefficacious or of little moment. The Electro-Chemical Fluid on the contrary, effects its purpose thoroughly and permanently. It supersedes the razor, renders the scissors unnecessary, and is WARRANTED to remove superfluous hair completely, totally and radically extirpating the disfigurement, leaving the skin smooth, soft and natural.

Price per bottle, - - - - - $3.00.
Large bottles, containing four times the quantity, - - 5.00.

In order to introduce this preparation, we will for next 90 days, send sample bottle free, to any address. Send two cent stamp for postage.

For sale by Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers generally, or sent to any address on receipt of price. An energetic agent wanted in every town to introduce these preparations. Liberal terms. NICHOLS & CO., General Agents, 46 West 14th St., New York.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

—The Bloomsburg Iron Company has resumed operations after being idle for over six months.

—General J. P. S. Cobin expects to raise $2.500 in the Third Brigade for the Hartranft monument fund.

—The Addison and New York railroad, which was torn up by the flood of May 31, is only now being put in good condition.

—The body of the dead infant found on Friday afternoon was buried Saturday morning by James I McClure, the overseer of the poor.

—Rev. J. Benson Akers was the first minister to be buried in the Logan's Valley cemetery, although said cemetery dates back one hundred years.

—Mr. J. P. Reed, of this place, who fills a responsible position in the government postoffice at Washington, D. C., is now at his home in Bellefonte where he will remain for a week or more.

—Edward T. Tuten has retired from the management of the DAILY NEWS. He is succeeded by Charles L. Gates, an active and influential Republican, who hopes to make the paper a better one than ever.—Huntingdon Globe.

—Mr. F. W. Crider's new house, on East Linn street, is now almost completed and will be ready for occupancy by the time cold weather is here. It is large, roomy and in point of beauty and style of architecture it will compare with any residence in Bellefonte.

—Company B., of this place, ranks first place in the Fifth Regiment. In marksmanship it is far ahead. Out of a total of sixty-two members of the Company fifty-eight are qualified marksmen. This is certainly a very good showing and speaks well for the officers of the Company, who spare no time or trouble to perfect all in every detail of military life.

—There is a great embankment of slack coal and cinder on the outskirts of Johnstown that has been burning ever since the great flood. This week the roasted body of an unknown man, about 40 years of age, was found lying on this bank. It is supposed he was rendered unconscious by the gas and that his body slowly roasted. There was nothing on his body by which he could be indentified.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W H Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial Bottles of this wonderful Discovery Free at W C Keplinger & Co's Drugstore.

—A most disgraceful scene was enacted on the corner of Diamond by the First National Bank on Friday evening. From six to eight young men provoked a quarrel with another young man who was passing by. They were so persistent in their torment that the inevitable climax was reached, a resort to fistcuffs. When the insulted young man got the better of the attacking party he was set on by others and brutaly maltrested and hammered. The parties who were engaged in this affair are all well known and it was certainly far beneath what might have been expected of them.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by W. C. Keplinger & Co.

—That jovial, genial and whole souled man, Mr. E. T. Gallagher, of Lock Haven, was in Bellefonte Friday evening. Mr. Gallagher is one of the best bridge builders in this State. He was the successful bidder for the three bridges in this county, the Monshannon, Karthaus and Milesburg, and has now completed his work. The Milesburg bridge was a difficult job, but Mr. G. knows no such word as fail and carried the work forward successfully and rapidly to completion. He has now been awarded the contract for rebuilding the stone work of the county bridge over the Bald Eagle creek at Howard.

HAPPY HYMEN.

Two Hearts that Formerly Beat as Two now Palpitate as One.

Yesterday all was serene and calm without while within the hospitable and pleasant home of Mr. W S Speer, on West Lamb street, considerable confusion was apparent, confusion rendered by preparations in progress for an event which proved the consummation of the highest hopes and anticipations of two of Bellefonte's best known and highly respected young people.

Long before three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon guests began to arrive and at 3.30 from seventy-five to one hundred of the representative ladies and gentlemen of Bellefonte, including some from a distance, had assembled in the cosy parlors to witness the marriage ceremony of Mr. W Horace Mann, son of J Fearon Mann, to Miss Annie P Speer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W T Speer.

Promptly at 3.30 o'clock the merry tunes of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Robert Voris, was the signal for the approach of the wedding party which came into the room unattended and formed in a very pretty group in front of the waiting minister, Rev. William Laurie, D. D. When the last tones of the music died away the Reverend gentleman performed the ceremony, adopting the ring service, which made the happy couple man and wife. Congratulations followed and with perfect self-possession and happy confidence the young couple received and acknowledged the showers of well wishes that were bestowed upon them.

After the congratulations had all been given supper was served, and this proved to be the next happiest event of the entire occasion. A collation of edibles, that would tempt the appetite of the most fastidious was spread before the guests in such abundance and with a magnificence that was testamentary of the wonderful culinary skill of those who prepared the wedding feast. Messrs. Harry Cooke, Frank Naginey, Robert Voris and Archie Allison performed the duties of waiters and deported themselves in that capacity to the entire satisfaction of all present.

The bride was dressed in an ash of roses silk costume and looked extremely pretty and bewitching. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T, Speer and a most estimable young lady. The groom was dressed in the customary black: He is the eldest son of J. Fearon Mann, of Mann's Axe Works, and has always been known as one of Bellefonte's most exemplary young men.

There was a large collection of choice and valuable presents given, among which was an Antique oak bed room suit, the gift of the bride's parents; a handsome set of dishes from Mr. and Mrs. Mann; a set of solid silver knives, forks and spoons from ladies and gentlemen of the Presbyterian church; then there were lamps, clocks, five rocking chairs, pictures, linen, glassware, etc.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Kinsloe, of Newton Hamilton, the grandparents of the groom; Gen. and Mrs. D. H. Hastings, of this place, and others whose names are now forgotten.

The bride and groom departed amid showers of rice, for the 5.20 p. m. train which they boarded and journeyed west on a brief wedding tour. The DAILY NEWS begs to unite with hosts of friends in congratulations and hopes that all their future will be one of unalloyed happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Speer express their appreciation of the services rendered on this occasion by Mrs. S. A. Bell, Mrs. Jas. A. Rankin and Mrs. D. H. Hastings.

Neighborhood News.

The Perry county railroad, from Duncannon to New Bloomfield, is completed and will be formally opened up on Saturday next.

We learn from the Greensburg Press that a man named Joseph Bridge, residing near Latrobe was crossing the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday forenoon, he was struck by day express east and instantly killed.

Chat!

The first number of "Chat," one of the Brightest and Best little 48 page monthly magazines we have ever seen, just come to hand. Its size, style and make-up are original and exceedingly neat and clean. Such a feast of Good Stories, Bright Articles and particularly attractive Young Folks' reading, is seldom met with under one cover for 10 cents, $1.00 a year.

A series of papers by ladies representing America's Leading Colleges for Women, is begun in this number. The Topic, "Traditions and Superstitions," by Ruth Craft, of Vassar College, is written in a most reading and masterly style. A specimen copy may be had for the asking, by addressing "Chat Publishing Company," Philadelphia, Pa.

Unionville Items.

A dense smoke is now daily seen rising from the forest along the slope of Muncy mountain which indicates that the new enterprise of Comley & Holtzworth is in full blast. The enterprise is the burning of lime in a square pit. The pit at the very least, is expected to turn out 5000 bushels of first-class lime for fertilizing purposes, and perhaps more, so that the farmers hereabout will without doubt have a large increase in their crops in the next two years.

The farmers are now at work taking in their corn crop, which is very good, in some instances yielding one hundred bushels to the acre.

Thomas and Ellwood Fisher have relieved their father of a part of the care of attending to the farm, fruit and cider making by taking charge themselves. They are making the cider mill hum.

Merchant F. E. Griest has been so closely confined to business for several years that it has become necessary for the benefit of his health that he drop the lever for a while and go east or south for recreation.

We know of but one case of typhoid fever in Union township lately resulting in death, instead of several as reported this week.

Jesse Cleaver is now better prepared to do surveying of all kinds than he formerly was, having recently purchased a new and improved compass with attachments for leveling and grading.

Mill Hall's Dreadful Scourge

Telephone messages from Mill Hall today state that the diphtheria continues to spread with alarming rapidity and this morning there were fifteen cases in the borough. No deaths occurred last night, but several children are very low with the disease and may die to-day. The public schools were closed this morning by the authorities and they are to remain closed until the disease disappears. The physicians say the disease is of the most malignant type, and there is every probability that many more cases will result. There seems to be good reasons for the belief that the disease originated from the bad sanitary condition of the public school building. All the children of the borough attended school in the one building in which there are three rooms, and it is stated that the cellar has never been cleaned since the flood. An old unused well in or near the building is filled with stagnant water and lends assistance in poisoning the atmosphere. It is quite likely that great care will be exercised from this time to prevent further spread of the disease, but other deaths are to be expected among those who are now ill.—Lock Haven Express.

New Yorks the World's Champions.

With the defeat of the Brooklyn's on Wednesday by the New Yorks they again came out of the season's fight as the world's champions. In the series of nine games played New York won six "Monte" Ward the Bellefonte boy, was again the hero of the last game. When New York came to the bat in the sixth one run was needed to tie. Ward was the batter. He made a single, stole second in fine style and came home an sacrifices by Connor and Richardson, That was ball playing and the crowd appreciated it. All the clubs have now disbanded for the season and speculation is now rife as to how they will be formed next year.

Electricity.

About 300,000 telephones are in use in the United States.

Four telegraphic messages can now be transmitted over one wire at one time by using the quadruplex system.

It is estimated that 250,000 persons in the United States are engaged in business depending solely on electricity.

Over 1,000,000 miles of telegraph wire are in operation in the United States—enough to encircle the globe forty times.

More than 175,000 miles of telepnone wire are in operation in the United States; over these 1,055,000 messages are sent daily.

—The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette is one of the newsiest and most influential papers in the country. The interest of the people—political, social and industrial—it closely studies and boldly advocates. Among its special features are unequaled news of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, complete market reports, entertaining and wholesome stories, and Dr. Talmage's sermons. At present it is experiencing a boom in its circulating and advertising departments that much surpass any other which it has had in its prosperous career of more than 100 years.

—Mr. Wm. Mills desires to have it known that the announcement calling a meeting of the colored voters at his barber shop on Wednesday evening was handed in at this office without his knowledge or consent, and that there was no meeting desired or none held there.

—A soft coal trust is now being very much talked of.

GAS AND PETROLEUM.

Are They to be Found East of the Alleghenies.

Just now there is considerable discussion and some little excitement caused throughout the western part of the state occasioned by sensational reports to the effect that petroleum is fast playing out in that territory and that owing to the great consumption of natural gas that fuel is already on the decline. Whether these reports are worthy of much consideration or worry is merely nominal, but the question at issue here in Centre county is, can gas and petroleum be found here in this part of the state.

Geologists have at various times discussed the expediency of tapping the earth to discover, if possible, whether either gas or oil flows beneath the surface. It is not generally known, yet it is a fact, that at one place in the western part of Centre county, oil can be found floating on pools of limped water. This oil if taken and disturbed, separated from the water and generated, will burn, emitting a silvery white flame and very little or no oder.

Whether on prospecting there could be found a "gusher" at this place is, of course, open for speculation, but all signs indicate that oil in paying quantity lies beneath the surface. At one time there was a man who pretended to know and be able to tell said that oil could be found there at a reasonable depth and in considerable quantity.

As to gas, there are places throughout Clinton county where it can be found oozing out of small fissures in the earth's surface. Although not generally acknowledged yet there is now a company being formed to investigate these discoveries, and the impression is that it won't be long until Centre county industries will be fed on fuel extracted within her own borders.

Christian Endeavor Work.

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 30.—The second day's session of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor Union saw an increased attendance, about 500 members being present. The proceedings opened with devotional exercises, after which President Beckley made an address, in which he said there were 600 societies in the State, all valuable factors in church work.

This evening there were addresses by Rev. H B Crosse of Pittsburgh, on "That Cast Iron Pledge" by Donald MacCall, of Princeton College, on "Why Should I Be a Foreign Missionary?" and by Dr. R M Luther, of Philadelphia, on "Why Should I Support the Foreign Missionary?" The reception given by Gov. Beaver to the delegates at the Executive Mansion to-night was very largely attended. Gov. and Mrs. Beaver received in the spacious parlors and gave a cordial greeting to all.

Rodgers' Inventions

Mr. George W. Rodgers, of this place has long been known as a man of great inventive genius. He now holds patents on various inventions, some of which are quite valuable. He has lately patented a self-closing hydrant, that will not leak or freeze up, and guarantees it for five years. He has placed one of these at the foot of Lamb street where it can be seen in daily use.

He has also patents on a sink wash bowl and bath tub, self closing spigots, that will not leak, that can be turned outside the wash bowl or sink so as not to be in the way. On these spigots there are no washers to grind or screw to wear out, and Mr. Rodgers says that with careful attention they will last a life time. Dr. Dart has placed them on the water attachments in his house.

Death on the Rail.

A telegram received in this place Thursday afternoon stated that George Munson a resident of Philipsburg, had been run over and killed on the railroad at Genoa, New York. Mr. Munson was a young man of steady habits and robust health and was killed while in the discharge of his duties, he being employed in some capacity on the road.

He was a brother of Mr. L. L. Munson, of this place, was married and had one child, who were away from home visiting at the time the message announcing his death was received.

—The weather wise are predicting twenty-three snows for the coming winter. The reason for the prediction is an old legend that there will be as many snows for w thesiwtner correspond to the date on which the first snow falls. The first snow falling on October 23, indicates 23 snows for the winter. Of course, all readers can use their own pleasure in believing this or wait and count them.

The Body Was not Recovered.

On Monday forenoon, says the Johnstown Democrat, some men were engaged in dislodging trees and other debris that had formed a drift against the bridge between Woodvale, and Conemaugh borough. Mr. James Bracken, of Woodvale, was one of the men. While he and the other men, with hooks and poles, were trying to remove the drift, he discovered a body partly afloat in the water. The men ran along the banks and tried, by means of hooks, to bring the body ashore. They were unsuccessful, and after it had floated about fifty yards, being under the water some of the time, and at no time much of it above the water, it disappeared. Search was made for it some distance below, where there were some obstructions against which it might have lodged, but it could not be found. As near as it was possible to tell, the body was that of a boy about 12 years old. The water was swift and the body remained on the top of the water only a very short while at one time. One foot had on a buttoned shoe, and the other was bare. The face looked much decayed, from which it is evident that it was the body of a victim of the flood. The body also had on it knee breeches.

or overeating, or the partaking of too rich and indigestible food, is a common cause of discomfort and suffering. To immediately relieve the stomach and bowels from such overloading, a full dose of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets is the best remedy. They operate gently, yet thoroughly and without griping, nausea, or other unpleasant effects.

If the too free indulgence in such intemperate eating has deranged digestion, causing dyspepsia and biliousness, attended with a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in mouth in the morning, on arising, drowsiness after meals, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity and hypochondria—then you need to follow up the use of the "Pellets" with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, to tone up the stomach, invigorate the liver, and set all the processes of digestion at work. While curing indigestion, it purifies the blood, cleansing the system from all humors and blood-poisons—no matter of what name or nature, or from what cause arising. There is nothing similar to it in composition or approaching it in results. Therefore, don't be duped and induced to take some substitute, said to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit.

VINEGAR BITTERS

The Only Non-Alcoholic Vegetable Medicine put up in Liquid Form ever discovered.

It is not a vile fancy drink made of rum, poor whisky, or refuse liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, but a purely vegetable preparation, made from native California herbs.

Twenty-five years' use have demonstrated to millions of sufferers throughout the civilized world, that of all the medicines ever discovered Vinegar Bitters only possesses perfect and wonderful curative effects upon those troubled with the following diseases, viz:

Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Neuralgia, Headache, Boils, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Jaundice, Gout, Piles, Billiousness, and all other diseases arising from blood impurities, and as a Vermifuge it is the best in the world, being death to all worms that infest the human system.

It is always safe to take at any time, or under any condition of the system, for old or young or for either sex. It is put up in two styles. The old is slightly bitter, and is the stronger in cathartic effect. The new style is very pleasant to the taste and a perfect medicine for delicate women or children. Each kind is distinctly marked on top of cartoon.

Many families keep both kinds on hand, as they form a complete medicine chest.

As a Family Medicine, for the use of ladies, children and men of sedentary habits, the New Style Vinegar Bitters has no equal in the world. It is invaluable for curing the ills that beset childhood, and gently regulates the diseases to which women at every period of life are subject.

Ladies, get a bottle from your druggist and try it. If your druggist has not the New Style Vinegar Bitters, ask him to send for it. If you once try it you will never be without this priceless remedy in the house.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

The only Temperance Bitters known. It stimulates the Brain and quiets the Nerves, regulates the Bowels and renders a perfect circulation through the human veins, which is sure to restore perfect health.

GEO W DAVIS, of 169 Barrone St., New Orleans, La., writes under date May 26th, 1888, as follows: "I have been going to the Hot Springs, Ark., for fifteen years for an itching humor in my blood. I have just used three bottles of Vinegar Bitters, and it has done me more good than the springs. It is the best medicine made."

JOSEPH J. EGAN, of No. 75 West St., New York, says: "Have not been without Vinegar Bitters for the past twelve years and consider it a whole medicine chest in our family."

MRS. MATTIE FURGUSON, of Dryden, N. Y. says: "Vinegar Bitters is the best medicine I ever tried; it saved my life."

T. F. BAILEY, of Humboldt, Iowa, says: Vinegar Bitters cured me of paralysis ten years ago, and recently it cured me of rheumatism."

Republican Triumph.

Pennsylvania Returns a Good, Old Time Majority.

OTHER STATES IN LINE.

BUT IN CENTRE COUNTY THE DEMOCRATS MADE

A CLEAN SWEEP OF EVERYTHING

Notes, Incidents, Details and Respective and Estimated Majorities.

Tuesday was a model election day. The atmosphere was just cool enough and sufficiently bracing to instill the vigor and activity into the listless and apathetic politician. At no time during the day did the excitement in Bellefonte rise higher than fever heat. Many members of both parties stood on every corner and at every voting place eagerly watching and always ready to "catch on" and "take in" the floating voter and by the subtle use of over-persuasive and argumentative language convince the unsuspecting "innocent" that their party was the one to support.

Reports from all over the State indicate a very quiet election and yet, to the contrary notwithstanding, Pennsylvania sends Hon. Henry K. Boyer to the office of State Treasurer to the tune of 60,000 plurality.

In Ohio, Governor J. B. Foraker, was again re-elected to succeed himself as the incumbent for the next three years.

In New Jersey, New York, Virginia, Indiana and Massachusetts the republicans were victorious, while in every other state in which elections were held on Tuesday the republican party polled a large vote, making heavy gains in every instance.

But here in good old Centre county the republican rooster must necessarily droop his head, not because of an overwhelming and humiliating defeat but simply as a token that a good many republicans stayed at home and neglected going to the polls to vote simply because they thought this was an "off" year, and, we believe it has so proved to be. The exact majorities for the several candidates in the county are, of course, as yet unobtainable, but we give the estimated majorities as 900 on the vote for State Treasurer Bigler, while all the democratic candidates in the county were elected with majorities ranging all the way from 700 to 1000.

Following is the vote of Centre county by precincts:

Bellefonte—

Receiving the Returns.

At their respective headquarters both democrats and republicans were assembled in full force on Tuesday evening to receive the returns from the State and various other states and especially to hear from the county. From the latter place the returns came in slow but such as did come in were of such a character that it left no doubt in the minds of any that the county had gone democratic, the only thing that could not be fully determined was the exact majority. The democrats claim the county by 800 majority and at republican headquarters last night it was conceded by from 300 to 500.

When the small boy—and also some that were not so small—heard the result they swarmed out of democratic headquarters like a hive of bees and, each one armed with six cow bells and a dozen or so tin horns, paraded the streets and made night hideous with their noise. Of course, it all goes for a good jollification and, we suppose, a year from now the republican boys will do the same thing.

At about ten o'clock a good many republicans considered it late enough for all good members of that party to retire to their homes and a great many acted on that consideration.

The Election in the States.

PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, November 6.—12.30 a. m.—Returns received from fifty-seven of the sixty-seven counties in the State including Philadelphia and Allegheny county show a plurality for Boyer, Republican, for State treasurer of 62,115 over Bigler, Democrat. Boyer's plurality in the State will be about 60,000.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, November 6—2.15 a. m.—Returns received up to this hour indicate that the Democratic state ttcket is elected by about 10,000 majority.

OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., November 5.—Chairman Neal, of the Democratic State Committee claim Campbell's election from 5,000 to 10,000 plurality. As to the Legislature he is in doubt, but thinks it may be Democratic on a joint ballot. Ex-Chairman Cappellior, who is figuring on the returns in Foraker's office, says a very liberal estimate is an average Democratic gain outside of Hamilton county of 4½ votes to the precinct, which would elect Governor Foraker by 1,500 to 2,000 plurality. The Republican State ticket will be elected by a large plurality. The Republicans claim the Legislature for certain. They claim a divided delegation from Hamilton county and a majority on joint ballot, which would assure the election of a Republican United States Senator.

NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN, Neb., November 5.—The day was fair all over the state, but the vote was not large. Returns are coming in slowly. Nothing has been heard so far as to change the estimate of a republican majority of 18,000 to 20,000.

OMAHA, Neb., November 5.—The republican majority in this state will range from 18,000 to 20,000.

COLORADO

DENVER, Col., November 5.—The election for county officers and two district judges passed off quietly. As considerable scratching was done it is impossible to give the result at this point, but a number of leading Republicans express the opinion that the entire Republican ticket is defeated.

MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—1 a. m.—Returns are coming in slowly and at this hour there are many towns and cities to be heard from, Brackett is undoubtedly elected governor, but even the republicans now concede that his plurality will be small it being variously estimated at 3,000 to 7,000.

VIRGINIA

ALEXANDRIA, Va., November 5.—Senator Barbour of the Virginia Democratic committee estimates McKinney's plurality in the state at 17,000.

Ira R. Hick's Storm Prophesies.

November—look for cold and heavy freezing during the first week in November. A warm wave will develop from 7th to 9th, naturally ending in a storm of rain and snow from the 8th to the 12th. Cold must follow.

November's hardest storms will occur during the second storm period, from the 18th to the 25th. Here again Mercury and Vulcan are combined, with Venus also reaching from December 4. Snow blockade and blizzard regions and all sea-faring interests, ought to have a care for this period. Very cold days to the end of the month.

December—A storm period in which Vulcan, Venus and Jupiter take a part bogins with the day of December. It is likely to be warm. This is the first step in every marked storm period. The period runs from the 1st to the 7th.

From the 10th to the 16th we saw the crisis of the winter solstice—Vulcan, Venus and Jupiter combine for the work What the results will be are among the "things not seen as yet," but those who will look at the record of past similar combinations, may very safely forcast, and make ready in all proper manner for very hard winter storms, which are likely to continue with extreme changes of temperature through the last period 23d to 29th.

—It was no fault of the Republican nominees that they were not elected in this county, for as men and citizens they were in every respect superior to their Democratic opponents.

THE BOROUGH FATHERS.

Every Councilman Present—Requests, Reports and bids Presented—A Good Financial Standing.

The borough council convened on Monday evening promptly at 7 o'clock with President Hillibish in the chair and every member of council present. There was no discussion of politics or dilly dallying of any kind whatever but business was at once commenced.

The first business of the evening was a request made by Mr. James Harris to council to know the rate of tax they would require to furnish water to run a moter in his store to operate his elevator. And also requested council to lay a three inch water pipe from main on High street, a distance of 120 feet, to where he could connect. The first part of request was held for consideration and as to the latter part council positively declined to entertain any proposition to lay the pipe on Water street.

The street committee reported the sewer on High street from corner of Harris' hardware store to Spring creek completed, also crossing at same place now done and in good condition. A new bridge will have to be built over the race below Crider's planing mill.

Street committee and borough engineer reported sundry pavements on Willow Bank, High and Lamb streets, badly in need of repair, and council gave instructions that notice was to be given to repair such pavements within fifteen days.

Mr. Gault presented a verbal request from numerous citizens of Logan street for a crossing over that thoroughfare and it will receive due attention.

The next and most important item of business transacted during the evening was the opening of bids and awarding the contract to furnish coal for to run the water works from now until April 1, 1890. Only four bids were received, and they were as follows:

Hoover & Miller, for Lehigh Valley Coal $1.75 per ton.

McCalmont & Co., for Kelley Brothers coal, $1.75 per ton; for screenings, $1.40 per ton; for a mixture of two parts good and one part screenings, $1.57 per ton.

Bellefonte Fuel and Supply Company, $1.70 per ton.

Wm. Grauer $1.60 per ton.

After considerable discussion on the several bids Mr. George L Potter moved the ayes and nays be called. The motion was seconded by Mr. Gault and a vote taken which resulted in a tie between Hoover & Miller and the Bellefonte Fuel and Supply Co. A second vote was taken which gave the contract to Hoover & Miller, they receiving five out of eight votes cast.

Quite an array of bills were then presented and passed on first reading.

Just as council was ready to adjourn the borough treasurer came in to read his monthly report, which was as follows:

Balance due Oct. 7,	$191.73
Borough orders paid	566.00
Water " "	282.20
Total	1039.93
Received from various sources	$1688·27
Amount paid out	1039.93
Balance on hand	648·34

No sooner had the treasurer finished reading his report than a motion was made to adjourn.

Philadelphia's Ovation to Hastings.

On last Saturday night the Republicans of Philadelphia held a large and rousing mass meeting, the closing one of the present campaign. Many noted speakers were present among whom there was none more popular or better received than Bellefonte's own great political speaker, General D. H. Hastings. In regard to the ovation given him when he was introduced to speak the Press of Sunday says:

"Mr. Smith was compelled to leave the hall owing to other engagements and General Bingham took his place. He aroused great enthusiasm in introducing General Hastings as the next speaker. He spoke of the way he had educated himself to the people of the State by working at Johnstown from "the very climax of its calamity until peace, comfort and security again reigned in the desolated community." General Bingham also referred to General Hastings as the associate of Hartranft in the creation of the National Guard of the State.

When General Hastings reached the front of the stage he was received with a noticeable ovation which lasted several minutes. The stalwart soldier stood it like a volley of bullets. He was evidently surprised, and, although he made an attempt to conceal it, plainly showed his emotion at the thunderous applause."

General Hastings' speech was a very fitting one and characteristic of the man who made it.

One Fare to Baltimore via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

A large number of people will be attracted to Baltimore by the meeting of the Catholic Congress and the ceremonies incident thereto, and, in order that they may make the trip as conveniently and as cheaply as possible, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets, November 7th to 12th, valid for return until November 16th from all principal stations on its lines, at a single fare for the round trip. During the same period, in order that the visitors to Baltimore may also extend their trip to Washington, excursion tickets will be sold between the two cities at $1.20, valid for return until November 16th.

We have Observed.

That the street brigade visit East Lamb street and dig occasionally, but the water from the South side continues to flow across the street, and after failing in the attempt, forms a delightful mud puddle in the centre. This attracts the small boy, but is rather an annoyance to those of an older growth.

That the small boys of Bellefonte continue to smoke cigarettes.

That Francis Speer is seen very frequently in one vicinity of town of late.

That Bellefonte is still minus an opera house, and the would-be theatre goer must be content with what few entertainments are provided by home talent. Couldn't somebody get up a spelling bee

That rain not only dampens the earth but it also dampens the arder of a man who is a little back in his bank account, but let the sun shine and a few creditors pay up and he will grin like a cheshire cat. How mighty the sun—and the mon.

HOUSERVILLE HOWLINGS.

"Shorty" Sweetly Grinds Out Items Plenty, Personal and Pertinent.

HOUSERVILLE, Pa., Nov. 4, 1889.

Threshing machines are trump in this neighborhood.

Mr. Irvin Wirts, of "book agent" fame who has been living in Snow Shoe for some time, is with us once again. Glad to see you, Irv.

Miss Hannah Beehrs, of Benore, this county, is at present living with her sister, Mrs. R. C. Palmer, of this place.

Mr. William Keller and wife, of Penns Valley, paid a short visit to relatives in this place on last Wednesday.

Mr. Daniel Walters who has been farming for David Wagner, took his departure on Friday night of last week. They say he struck for the mountain.

Miss Sallie Johnstonbaugh who has been away from home for some time spent a few days with her parents and many friends in this vicinity.

Emanuel Houser is the boss turnip raiser in this neighborhood. He has some in his store that weigh from 8 to 10 pounds.

Grant Holderman, who has been farming for P. B. Wirtz, has gone into the foundry business with Mr. Sellers, at Oak Hall.

The Misses Emma and Allie Tressler, of Fillmore, were recent visitors at the home of Miss May Houser, in this place.

Mr. John Dale of Curwensville, is at present visiting his sister, Mrs. P. B. Wirtz, of this place.

Miss Belle Felty and Miss Noney Hess were among the many visitors at this place last week. Call again ladies.

A little "yaller" dog, the property of Mr. Samuel Boal, has either strayed away, been lost or stolen. Any person having such a dog in their possession, would confer a great favor by returning it to the above named.

SHORTY.

The Campaign is Over.

The campaign is now over. The result or outcome in the State was all along plainly forseen. Boyer has been elected State Treasurer by a good round majority, while in the republican strongholds throughout the state the vote cast on Tuesday gave evidence that in no place had there been lack of vigor, or proper work been done.

The campaign was not characterized by any loud, boisterous, haranging, mud slinging or personal applications of a questionable character, but it can truly be said that it was a campaign carried on in a gentlemanly way on party principles and not foolish, flippant personalities. So much the better. It is time to reform in politics as well as to reform in office. And the sooner the American people realize the fact the better it will be for all, both voter and office seeker.

The result of the campaign this fall is a sure precursor of next year's more important election. It is only now a question of men in the party and not of party as to who shall carry off the gubernatorial wreath in 1890. Of course, that is yet some time in advance, but, nevertheless, it will soon pass. And even in a few weeks now active work will be commenced by the various aspirants for political honor. Who the fortunate one may be no one can tell. It is only wait and see.

—A special telegram from Hyndman, Bedford county, says: A serious accident occurred about one mile north of this place, at the clay mine of the Savage Fire Brick Company, Saturday morning. William Bush was crushed in the mine, and was being taken to his home by eight other men. Bush was placed in a clay car with the other men and landed safely at the bottom of the incline plane. From there to the railroad there is a tramway, and while they were going over this control of the car was lost. Thomas Shaffer jumped from the car and was fatally injured. Ed. Riser, Will Plummer, William Bush, Charles Brantler and J. Grim were seriously and the others slightly injured.

A First Class Fence.

Mr. Amos P. Lucas, of Philipsburg, who represents the Hartmann Manufacturing Company, of Beaver Falls, Pa., has lately erected a steel wire indestructible fence around the property of Mr. Jacob Ertle, in Milesburg. This is undoubtedly a good fence and as handsome as it is durable, and Mr. Lucas is the man that knows how to handle it. When you go to Milesburg take a good look at the fence above mentioned and then consult Mr. Lucas as to prices, etc., and you will be surprised how cheap it is.

—The recent democratic victory in this county was brought about by the superior party tactics adopted, unlimited lying and the stay-at-home citizens of the republican voter. Next year it will be otherwise and the republicans will score a permanent victory in the county.

—Tuesday was election day and everybody was busy trying to elect their man. To-day must be spent in talking over the result then we can settle down to business again.

MARRIED.

MURRAY—LONBERGER.—At the home of the brides parents at Pleasant Gap, on Thursday, October 31, Miss Lizzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G W Lonberger, and Mr. Robert Murray, of Bellefonte, Rev. W D Fisher officiating.
